Churchill Says 335,000 Men Evacuated

ALLIED LOSSES TO NAZI FORCES FIXED AT 30,000

Prime Minister Goes Before Commons To Outline Recent Campaign

MANY WEAPONS GONE

Men Evaded Death's Jaws By Miracle, British House Is Told

LONDON, June 4—A "colossal military disaster" occurred in Flanders, but a miracle of deliverance saved the "root and core" of the whole British army and 335,000 Allied troops have been evacuated safely from Dunkerque, Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the House of Commons today.

British losses in guns and mechanized equipment were "enormous", Churchill admitted. The army in the North lost virtually everything, and it was the best that England possessed.

In an utterly frank statement which included the disclosure that virtually an entire British force of 4,000 was wiped out at Calais, Churchill warned England to be ready for a Nazi attack and announced that the Allies would fight to the last man rather than surrender.

"We must expect another blow to be struck almost immediately on us or on France," Churchill said.

"We are told that Hitler has a plan of invading Britain . . . this has often been thought of before . . . Napoleon was told 'there are bitter weeds in England'."

"There certainly are a good many bitter weeds since the B. E. F. returned."

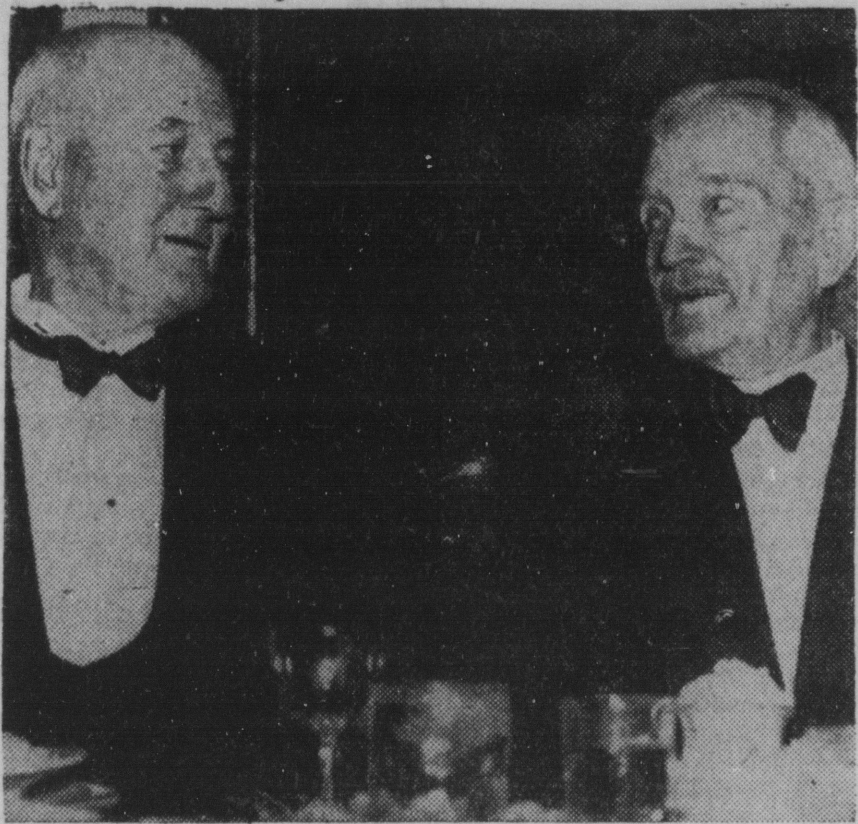

Colossal Disaster

"Thankfulness over the escape of our army," he said, "must not blind us to the fact that what has happened is a colossal military disaster."

Thirty thousand men were killed, wounded or taken prisoner, Churchill said. But last week, he continued, he thought he would be compelled to announce that the expeditionary force, on which Britain plans to build "great armies" in the later years of the war, had perished in the field or been led into "ignominious and starving captivity."

Letter Sent To Roosevelt By Cudahy Explaining Belgium's Fall

BRUSSELS, June 4—Through United States Ambassador John D. Cudahy, King Leopold of Belgium has transmitted to President Roosevelt a full story of the circumstances which compelled his surrender to Nazi Germany, it was stated by German officials in Brussels today.

Cudahy had a two-hour conference with the king and then transmitted the message to Washington, it was said.

FEDERAL CONCILIATOR ON WAY TO HEAR AUTO STRIFE

WASHINGTON, June 4—Possibility of a crippling strike in the vast General Motors plants, just as they are being mustered into the national defense program, lessened today as a federal labor conciliator was assigned to attempt to adjust differences between GM and the CIO's United Automobile Workers Union.

Rites To Be Wednesday For Robert Anderson

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 8:30 a. m. in St. Joseph's Catholic Church for Robert M. Anderson, 78, who died Monday afternoon in Berger Hospital. An illness of six months ended fatally for Mr. Anderson. The Rev. Fr. J. J. Herman will officiate at funeral services with burial to be in the family lot of the Urbana, O., cemetery by the Albaugh Co.

Funeral bearers will include Judge Meeker Terwilliger, William D. Radcliff, Paul A. Johnson, Charles H. May, Karl Herrmann and John P. O'Brien.

The body will remain at the Albaugh Chapel where friends may call prior to the hour of the funeral.

Mr. Anderson, a native of Wayne Township, born February 13, 1862, a son of William Marshall Anderson and Ellen C. Ryan, had resided for many years in the East where he had served as a professor in civil engineering in the Stevens Institute of Technology. He retired from his teaching post and moved to Circleville in 1930, constructing one of Circleville's most modern homes in the city's north-end.

Mr. Anderson never married, his only survivors being nieces and nephews. He was a member of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, the Rotary Club and the Circleville Lodge of Elks.

His father, William Marshall Anderson, was one of south central Ohio's most prominent men. A native of Kentucky, he removed to the Chillicothe vicinity in 1835 and removed to Circleville in 1853. He was active in board of education work and headed the board for several terms. The elder Mr. Anderson removed to Mexico during the Civil War and remained there for two years during the reign of Maximilian.

NAZIS CLAIM DUNKERQUE

Hitler's Army Moves Into Ruins Of City That Provided Allies Chance To Flee

By Pierre J. Huss

WITH THE GERMAN ARMIES NEAR THE ENGLISH CHANNEL, June 4—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's fast-moving army penetrated the flaming ruins of Dunkerque today, reaching the "pivotal point" of Nazi Germany's next move in the war.

Lying under a gigantic pall of smoke, Dunkerque stood until today as the last refuge of some 60,000 remnants of three crack French armies, plus a few companies of the British Expeditionary Force which held on to the bitter end in a fatal "sack" only six miles by nine.

It was into this "sack" that Hitler drove the Allied legions within 21 days of the inauguration of total war on the Western Front.

The wedge driven into Dunkerque today marked the terminal point of the Fuehrer's march to the channel.

I have been in the thickest part of the battlefront since Sunday and was present at the breakthrough at Dunkerque, where the Germans captured Fort Louis.

Once it was necessary to speed 200 miles through the area of military operations to reach Brussels and file a story. All attempts to open a communications line within France itself failed owing to the magnitude of military operations.

I passed one column of mixed motorized artillery, infantry and machine-gunners 75 miles long, which is a sample of what is going on in the war zone.

The climax of operations in the Dunkerque area came in Sunday's great battle when the fortified and heavily defended town of Bergues, six miles from the last channel port unoccupied by the Germans, was stormed.

Since then the Germans have been pouring tons of bombs and artillery shells into Dunkerque, approaching the town in a wedge formation.

They have been mopping up the French crouching in pillboxes, trenches and canals throughout the rolling wooded hill and crossing the flooded meadows and ditches between Bergues and Dunkerque.

TWO PICK WHITT AS ONE ROBBER IN BANK HOLDUP

Positive identification of Elmer Whitt, 28, Columbus, as one of the three men who robbed the Circleville Savings and Banking Company was established Monday after Bank Employees N. E. Reichelderfer and Katherine Mead returned from Cincinnati where they picked Whitt from a police lineup of five.

Another person was chosen by the bank employees as a suspect, but local authorities are doubtful as to his connection with the $15,141.7 robbery here December 5. He was Lloyd "Lonny" Little, 33, Ironton, who was arrested in December by E. J. Custer, United States deputy marshal, for operating an unlicensed still. He was committed to Pickaway County jail December 23, and was released January 17 to authorities in Cincinnati, where he is finishing his sentence.

350 Attending Vacation Bible Schools

Three hundred and fifty Circleville youngsters, dismissed from Circleville schools Monday afternoon after receiving their grade cards, were attending Bible school sessions Tuesday. The vacation Bible School, sponsored by Methodist, United Brethren, Presbyterian and Evangelical Churches, attracted 200 pupils, while the Trinity Lutheran school had an enrollment of 150. More pupils are expected to be enrolled Wednesday in both schools.

The combined churches are using the Corwin Street building, while the Lutheran school is conducted in the parish house.

Teachers in the combined school include: Miss Lucile Neuding, superintendent; ages 3 to 6, Mrs. Harold Clifton, Mrs. Karl Mason, Mrs. Bishop Given, Miss Elizabeth Dunlap; 6 to 9, Miss Virginia Marion, Bonita Hulser, Ruth Noggle and Mrs. Leonard Snodgrass; 9 to 12, Misses Sophia Parks, Eloise Hilyard, Elizabeth Tolbert, Mary

WALNUT SCHOOL JANITOR SHOTS SELF TO DEATH

Claude Goodman, janitor at the Walnut Street School, died shortly before 1 p. m. Tuesday, 15 minutes after he shot himself below the heart with a .12 gauge shotgun. Ill health was blamed for his act.

Mr. Goodman, who had been conferring with members of his family, went to his room, locked the door and shot himself.

Patrolman Fred Fitzpatrick, Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputy Robert Adkins went to the Goodman home, Scioto and Mound Streets, after being called by members of the family. Mr. Goodman died a few minutes after Dr. E. L. Montgomery, his physician, arrived at the home.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Spokesmen Believe Grand Attack Will Be Made At Same Time That Italy Makes Known Its Participation In Strife

ALLIES HURL BOMBS ON MUNICH

Germans Toss Missiles On Havre For Hour During Morning; Six Planes Take Part In Raid; Number Of Dead Undisclosed

BERLIN, June 4—The German propaganda ministry admitted today that Allied planes had bombed the outskirts of Munich.

"Some Allied planes penetrating southwestern Germany penetrated the outskirts of Munich," a spokesman said, "but did not reach the city proper."

"Damage and casualties are not known at present."

PARIS, June 4—With every indication pointing to a far greater casualty list than officially announced after yesterday's German air raid on Paris, this capital waited with complete calm today the next spectacular development of the war.

While informed quarters revealed unofficially that Allied war planes had bombed military objectives in Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's favorite city of Munich in reprisal for the Paris attack, the suspense here became almost a tangible thing as the war whirled on to its new climax.

Paris expects these three developments:

- 1—A grand German offensive on Paris, with the utilization of every military weapon known.
- 2—Active Italian participation in the war.
- 3—Renewed air bombardments on a scale heretofore undreamed of.

So far as the last is concerned, this was a perfect day for it, if yesterday may be regarded as a criterion. Once again it was hot and sultry, with a cloudless but hazy sky.

But the next raid on Paris will take no one by surprise. The attitude is now one of "attente" or expectant waiting.

Most observers believed that a new German offensive and Italian entry will coincide—possibly if not probably before the end of this week.

The Germans are rushing to completion their organization of supplies and troop concentrations and repair of their battered Panzer (mechanized) divisions for a blow in the North. German movements thus far indicate that the attack will come between the Somme and the Aisne.

As to Italy's entry, there is no longer the slightest shadow of doubt anywhere. It is only a question of the hour. Highest Italian officials themselves have seen to disposition of any possible lingering doubt these last few days by openly boasting in diplomatic circles in Rome of their impending war against France.

PARIS, June 4—Informed French quarters stated today that the French air force attacked military objectives at Munich, Germany, today in retaliation for yesterday's German air attack on Paris.

So far there has been no official statement regarding the French raid.

LONDON, June 4—The Allied air forces raided military objectives in Germany during the night, it was understood in London today.

BASLE, Switzerland, June 4—An Allied air fleet has bombed Munich, Germany, in reprisal for yesterday's German air raid on Paris, according to rumors circulated in Basle today.

PARIS, June 4—Hard on the heels of an attack on Paris, German war planes raided the important channel port of Le Havre for nearly an hour early today, dropping heavy explosives (eight words censored).

Six planes participated in the attack. Exact time of the bombing was not known in Paris.

Many deaths and injuries were reported. Several German planes were said to have been brought down.

Le Havre is the chief terminus of French Trans-Atlantic commerce.

BERLIN, June 4—A warning of sharpest German retaliation against any Allied air raids on undefended German cities was voiced in Berlin today. Yesterday's German air attack on Paris was aimed solely at military objectives and was not in reprisal for previous British and French raids, a spokesman said.

"If France and England should retaliate for the Paris attack by onslaughts against undefended German cities, the Reich will be compelled to take most drastic counter-measures," it was said.

ALLIED LOSSES TO NAZI FORCES FIXED AT 30,000

est tribute to all the armed forces of the nation which contributed to the successful evacuation. He revealed that the aerial defenses of London had been stripped down to supply planes to combat the raiding Germans.

"They have been brought from the jaws of death by a miracle of deliverance," he said.

Allied losses, Churchill said, totaled 30,000 killed, wounded and missing.

Nearly 1,000 guns were left behind in the evacuation.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Germans claim that 330,000 British and French were taken prisoner in Flanders and Artois.)

Before a crowded house, Churchill outlined the history of events from the time the Germans broke through the Sedan-Meuse defenses.

"Only a rapid retreat to Amiens could have saved the situation," he said.

"But the French high command, which was in complete charge of the situation, did not immediately realize this strategic fact."

"The German eruption swept up the coast like a sharp scythe."

"The British at Calais were given an hour in which to surrender."

Silence Over Calais

"But there were four days of street fighting before silence settled over Calais. Only thirty un-wounded survivors were brought off by the navy."

"Four thousand English troops defended Calais to the last."

"The sacrifice was not in vain. At least two German armored divisions had to be sent to overcome them. They added another page of glory and enabled the Gravelines water-line, held by the French, and the port of Dunkerque to be kept open."

Describing the evacuation from Dunkerque which has been cited as a masterpiece of military strategy and cooperation, Churchill said:

"A week ago I feared it would be my hard lot to announce today the greatest military disaster in our history."

"I thought perhaps that 20,000 or 30,000 might be re-embarked, but it certainly seemed that the whole French First Army and the whole of the B. E. F. north of the Amiens-Abbeville gap would be broken up in the open field or forced to capitulate for lack of food and ammunition."

All Appeared Lost

"The whole root and core of the brave British army, which we were to build great British armies in the later years of the war, seemed about to perish in the field or to be led into ignominious and starving captivity."

Churchill then proceeded to refer to the "final blow" of King Leopold's surrender "on his own personal act."

"He surrendered his army and exposed our whole flank without means of retreat," Churchill said to the accompaniment of cries of "shame."

"I do not feel that any reason now exists why we should not form our own opinion of this pitiful episode."

Here the members cheered and shouted "treachery!"

"The enemy attacked us from all sides," Churchill continued. "They concentrated on the beaches of Dunkerque."

"The enemy cannon-fired from the beaches, sowed magnetic mines in the channels and the seas and sent repeated waves of aircraft, sometimes over 100 strong, to bomb our troops as they arrived at the coast."

"U-boats, one of which was sunk, and motor launches took a toll of the vast traffic . . . for four or five days an intense struggle raged as great masses of German infantry hurled themselves on the ever-narrowing contracting appendix in which were the British and French armies."

Churchill told in detail the assistance given by the French and British navies in the evacuation and the heroic role played by volunteer fishermen, yachtsmen and rivermen in bringing the Allied armies to safety.

TREASURY CONSIDERING NEW 'LIBERTY LOANS'

WASHINGTON, June 4 — Revival of the Liberty Loan campaign of World War days to help raise money for the government's national defense program is being discussed in treasury quarters today.

Officials emphasized that no definite conclusions had been reached concerning future government borrowing operations. They reported, however, that suggestions for a large-scale public distribution of the proposed national defense securities will receive thorough consideration.

The new tax-public debt legislation now before the house ways and means committee authorizes an increase of $3,000,000,000 in the public debt to $48,000,000,000 and the treasury proposes to issue new government securities in this amount maturing in five years.

KIWANIS TO SPONSOR ANOTHER FALL FESTIVAL

Kiwanians voted Monday evening at their meeting at the Pickaway Country Club to sponsor another Collins Festival series next fall, proceeds to go to the club's underprivileged child fund.

The club has presented the Collins series the last two falls, the entertainment being outstanding. The program for next fall promises to surpass that of either of the other years.

The club enjoyed colored pictures shown by M. E. Noggle, who also explained how colored movies were made. The program proved highly entertaining.

Kiwanis Club members will travel to Columbus Thursday evening to witness the Minneapolis-Red Bird ball game on Shrine night. A team that lost in competition with another during ticket sales for the Policemen's and Fireman's Ball is acting as host. The club members will meet at the New American Hotel before starting the trip.

LEIST RECEIVES FOURTH WIRE FOR RED CROSS AID

Receiving, Tuesday, his fourth telegram from Norman H. Davis, National Red Cross chairman, Pickaway County Chairman Carl C. Leist urged county Red Cross contributors to hasten with their donations. He reported that so far $250 has been received.

Chairman Leist has scheduled a Red Cross meeting for Tuesday evening at 7:15 in the Rellie Room of Memorial Hall and has urged all interested persons to attend.

In his wire to the county chairman, National Chairman Davis asked that the local chapter "put forth every effort possible to raise funds at once. The telegram read as follows:

"At the International Conference of all Red Cross Societies of the world two years ago, a unanimous appeal was made to all nations to enter into agreements, prohibiting the bombing of open towns and cities or at least establish zones of immunity where civilians could seek sanctuary. This appeal has not been heeded. In fact, established agreements against warfare on civilians are not even being respected. In all the experience of the Red Cross, it has never been faced with such heartbreaking problem as that of caring for innocent women, children and aged, against whom merciless and ruthless war is being waged. For the sake of humanity, we must do everything possible to relieve suffering and maintain morale of these tragic victims of war. PLEASE PUT FORTH EVERY EFFORT POSSIBLE TO RAISE FUNDS AT ONCE."

ATTEMPTS TO SAVE BOY FATAL TO RESCUER, 35

COLUMBUS, June 4—Two heroic attempts to rescue a 5-year-old boy from a blazing cottage May 19 had resulted in death today for Emmi Fain, 35, one of the seven residents of the frame house in Wonderland, nearby summer resort.

Fain was burned as he attempted to rescue James Gillian, who was carried from the flaming structure by his father. The boy was released from Children's Hospital a week ago.

The fire, which destroyed the four-room home, was attributed to an overheated oil cook stove.

MOTHER OF SEVEN DIES AT 34 IN RURAL HOME

Mrs. Hazel Nance, 34, wife of Conney Nance of Monroe Township, died of a heart attack Monday at 7:15 p. m. at her home, two and one-half hours after delivery of a stillborn baby. Mrs. Nance was a native of the Mount Sterling community, born May 20, 1905, a daughter of William and Hannah Junk Vannoy.

Surviving are her husband, her mother, a brother, three sisters and the following children, Ned, Marjorie, Emmitt, Patricia, Mary, Eleanor and Freddie, all at home.

ALLIED LOSSES TO NAZI FORCES FIXED AT 30,000

Prime Minister Goes Before Commons To Outline Recent Campaign

est tribute to all the armed forces of the nation which contributed to the successful evacuation. He revealed that the aerial defenses of London had been stripped down to supply planes to combat the raiding Germans.

"They have been brought from the jaws of death by a miracle of deliverance," he said.

Allied losses, Churchill said, totaled 30,000 killed, wounded and missing.

Nearly 1,000 guns were left behind in the evacuation.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Germans claim that 330,000 British and French were taken prisoner in Flanders and Artois.)

Before a crowded house, Churchill outlined the history of events from the time the Germans broke through the Sedan-Meuse defenses.

"Only a rapid retreat to Amiens could have saved the situation," he said.

"But the French high command, which was in complete charge of the situation, did not immediately realize this strategic fact."

"The German eruption swept up the coast like a sharp scythe."

"The British at Calais were given an hour in which to surrender."

Silence Over Calais

"But there were four days of street fighting before silence settled over Calais. Only thirty un-wounded survivors were brought off by the navy."

"Four thousand English troops defended Calais to the last."

"The sacrifice was not in vain. At least two German armored divisions had to be sent to overcome them. They added another page of glory and enabled the Gravelines water-line, held by the French, and the port of Dunkerque to be kept open."

Describing the evacuation from Dunkerque which has been cited as a masterpiece of military strategy and cooperation, Churchill said:

"A week ago I feared it would be my hard lot to announce today the greatest military disaster in our history."

"I thought perhaps that 20,000 or 30,000 might be re-embarked, but it certainly seemed that the whole French First Army and the whole of the B. E. F. north of the Amiens-Abbeville gap would be broken up in the open field or forced to capitulate for lack of food and ammunition."

All Appeared Lost

"The whole root and core of the brave British army, which we were to build great British armies in the late years of the war, seemed about to perish in the field or to be led into ignominious and starving captivity."

Churchill then proceeded to refer to the "final blow" of King Leopold's surrender "on his own personal act."

"He surrendered his army and exposed our whole flank without means of retreat," Churchill said to the accompaniment of cries of "shame."

"I do not feel that any reason now exists why we should not form our own opinion of this pitiful episode."

Here the members cheered and shouted "treachery!"

"The enemy attacked us from all sides," Churchill continued. "They concentrated on the beaches of Dunkerque."

"The enemy cannon-fired from the beaches, sowed magnetic mines in the channels and the seas and sent repeated waves of aircraft, sometimes over 100 strong, to bomb our troops as they arrived at the coast."

"U-boats, one of which was sunk, and motor launches took a toll of the vast traffic . . . for four or five days an intense struggle raged as great masses of German infantry hurled themselves on the ever-narrowing contracting appendix in which were the British and French armies."

Churchill told in detail the assistance given by the French and British navies in the evacuation and the heroic role played by volunteer fishermen, yachtsmen and rivermen in bringing the Allied armies to safety.

TREASURY CONSIDERING NEW 'LIBERTY LOANS'

WASHINGTON, June 4 — Revival of the Liberty Loan campaign of World War days to help raise money for the government's national defense program is being discussed in treasury quarters today.

Officials emphasized that no definite conclusions had been reached concerning future government borrowing operations. They reported, however, that suggestions for a large-scale public distribution of the proposed national defense securities will receive thorough consideration.

The new tax-public debt legislation now before the house ways and means committee authorizes an increase of $3,000,000,000 in the public debt to $48,000,000,000 and the treasury proposes to issue new government securities in this amount maturing in five years.

STOCKHOLM—The Norwegian port of Narvik, captured by British and Norwegian troops after a long siege, is a mass of smoking ruins as the result of a full-scale German air bombardment Sunday, it was learned in Stockholm today.

NEW YORK — Norwegian, French and Polish forces in the Narvik region of Norway are advancing "according to plan," according to a Norwegian government communique broadcast by the official British radio and picked up in New York today by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

LONDON—The British destroyer Havant, whose loss was announced yesterday, was sunk in a bombing attack, it was disclosed today. Eight crew members were killed and twenty wounded, it was stated, while the majority of the survivors landed Sunday at a southeast coast town.

JOSEPH J. McCURM, 72, IS DEAD AT DAUGHTER'S

Joseph J. McCrum, 72, a native of Circleville and an employee of the Norfolk and Western Railroad for 47 years, died Monday after a stroke at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Eugene Garver, 2871 Findlay Avenue, Columbus.

Mr. McCrum had been a resident of Columbus since 1912. His widow, Ann, and a grandson survive in addition to the daughter. Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

4-H CLUB NEWS

The Washington Township Kitchen Queens 4-H Club met May 29 at the school building. The meeting was called to order at 2 p. m. by Doris Kraft, president.

We received our new books which are entitled, "Fresh From the Oven." We decided to work out a program for the coming year. We agreed to have our meetings at the school building the first and third Tuesdays of the month.

Fourteen members and three visitors were present.

A delightful lunch was served at the close of the afternoon.

The council met for a little less than two hours, closing its session shortly before noon.

While the meeting was in process, it was disclosed at Genoa that Crown Prince Humbert is visiting military and industrial establishments along the Ligurian Coast. At Turin the crown princess inspected a military hospital.

The council also provided for storage of trains for national needs by reducing to two quintals the amount individual farmers are permitted to retain for themselves.

ROME, June 4—A London newspaper report that Premier Mussolini cancelled his decision regarding Italian participation in the European war after receiving an alleged new appeal from President Roosevelt drew his comment today from United States ambassador William Phillips:

"That is the first I have heard of it."

"It is well known that President Roosevelt is making every effort to limit the conflict, but I am not making any statements regarding the President's communications to foreign statesmen. Such statements must come from Washington."

Italian officials denied that President Roosevelt had sent a new appeal to Premier Mussolini.

INTENSIVE press (controlled) attacks on Great Britain by Italian newspapers, which allege British persecution of Italian minority in Malta, tactics employed by Nazis before an invasion, is viewed by observers to presage early entry of Italy in the war. ## KIWANIS TO SPONSOR ANOTHER FALL FESTIVAL

Kiwanians voted Monday evening at their meeting at the Pickaway County Club to sponsor another Collins Festival series next fall, proceeds to go to the club's underprivileged child fund.

The club has presented the Collins series the last two falls, the entertainment being outstanding. The program for next fall promises to surpass that of either of the other years.

The club enjoyed colored pictures shown by M. E. Noggle, who also explained how colored movies were made. The program proved highly entertaining.

Kiwanis Club members will travel to Columbus Thursday evening to witness the Minneapolis-Red Bird ball game on Shrine night. A team that lost in competition with another during ticket sales for the Policeman's and Fireman's Ball is acting as host. The club members will meet at the New American Hotel before starting the trip.

VAN WERT READY FOR ITS PEONY FESTIVAL

VAN WERT, June 4 — The "Peony Center of the World" today prepared for an anticipated throng of 100,000 persons who are expected to attend the 9th annual Peony Festival at Van Wert tomorrow.

The miles of peony gardens are blooming, setting a gorgeous background for the crowning of Jeanne Lewis, 17, brown-eyed York Township High School girl, chosen as Jubilee Queen IX.

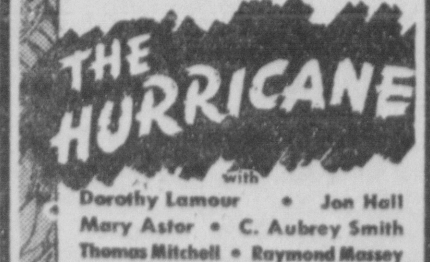

Col. Robert S. Beightler, state highway director, will place the crown on Queen Jeanne's head at the close of the mile-long festival parade which moves at 2 p. m.

In the evening, the parade will be repeated, and a spectacular fireworks display and baton twirling exhibition will be staged in the High School stadium.

LEIST RECEIVES FOURTH WIRE FOR RED CROSS AID

Receiving, Tuesday, his fourth telegram from Norman H. Davis, National Red Cross chairman, Pickaway County Chairman Carl C. Leist urged county Red Cross contributors to hasten with their donations. He reported that so far $250 has been received.

Chairman Leist has scheduled a Red Cross meeting for Tuesday evening at 7:15 in the Relic Room of Memorial Hall and has urged all interested persons to attend.

In his wire to the county chairman, National Chairman Davis asked that the local chapter "put forth every effort possible to raise funds at once. The telegram read as follows:

"At the International Conference of all Red Cross Societies of the world two years ago, a unanimous appeal was made to all nations to enter into agreements, prohibiting the bombing of open towns and cities or at least establish zones of immunity where civilians could seek sanctuary. This appeal has not been heeded. In fact, established agreements against warfare on civilians are not even being respected. In all the experience of the Red Cross, it has never been faced with such heartbreaking problem as that of caring for innocent women, children and aged, against whom merciless and ruthless war is being waged. For the sake of humanity, we must do everything possible to relieve suffering and maintain morale of these tragic victims of war. PLEASE PUT FORTH EVERY EFFORT POSSIBLE TO RAISE FUNDS AT ONCE."

ATTEMPTS TO SAVE BOY FATAL TO RESCUER, 35

COLUMBUS, June 4—Two heroic attempts to rescue a 5-year-old boy from a blazing cottage May 19 had resulted in death today for Emmi Fain, 35, one of the seven residents of the frame house in Wonderland, nearby summer resort.

Fain was burned as he attempted to rescue James Gillilan, who was carried from the flaming structure by his father. The boy was released from Children's Hospital a week ago.

The fire, which destroyed the four-room home, was attributed to an overheated oil cook stove.

MANY TO RETURN HOME

Commencement On Schedule
For Monday, June 10, At 5 P. M. In Stadium

Circleville and Pickaway County students at Ohio State University are now in the midst of final examinations, preliminary to the close of the year's work.

Ohio State's annual alumni college comes Thursday and Friday, with a program of speakers and round-tables intended to give alumni and others a greater knowledge of the background and trends of affairs in Europe. Admission to all sessions is free.

Saturday is "Alumni Day," with the annual inter-city golf tournament, a clinic and luncheon for law graduates, class reunions, dedication of the new men's residence hall, sunset supper in the gymnasium, and the all-alumni dance.

Events of Sunday, June 9, are baccalaureate, at 3 p. m., and the senior class supper and class day program at 5:30 p. m.

Program for Monday, June 10, includes President and Mrs. Howard L. Bevis' reception for graduates and their parents at 2 p. m., and commencement at 5 p. m. in the stadium.

Members of the Ohio State student body who will be arriving home this week end for the vacation period are:

Ashville: — Robert Balthaser, Guy Cline, Roberta Cromley, Ann Gebhardt, James Gray, Walter Gregg, Edgar Hedges, Gretchen Hedges, Jasper Hedges, Richard Hedges, Charles Higley, Hugh Lamb, Ira Martin, A. Countians who have enrolled at the university for the spring quarter who were not in attendance the last quarter include Harold J. Bowers and Carl D. Bennett of Ashville and Jeannette Reichelderfer of Circleville.

Donald W. Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wray Henry, has been initiated into the Forum Club, speech professional society, at the university.

FARBEANN TO VISIT TWO AREAS IN REICHLEY HUNT

LOGAN, June 4—Sheriff Joe Farbeann revealed Monday that he expects to spend several days this week in West Virginia and Kentucky in connection with his investigation into the disappearance of Conrad H. (Coon) Reichley, missing from his home near South Bloomingville for almost three months.

Several hundred posters, each bearing a likeness of the bearded Hocking Countian, were prepared last week and are being distributed to sheriffs and to police offices in Ohio and nearby states.

Sheriff Farbeann will take a supply of these posters to Kentucky and West Virginia and at the same time inquire into a report that Reichley was seen in that state only a few weeks ago.

LANCASTER'S POPULATION
GOES TO 21,886 SINCE '30

CHILLICOTHE, June 4 — Lancaster has an increase in population of 3,170 over the 1930 enumeration, according to official census figures announced Tuesday by Herbert J. Mattox, district census supervisor. This brings Lancaster's total population to 21,886.

Mattox said that he believed the increase was due to industrial extension of corporation limits.

PETTENGILL
"The Gentleman from Indiana"

KEEP CONGRESS IN SESSION

Washington talks about Congress adjourning around June 8. If it does, there is no assurance that it will convene again until the newly elected Congress meets next January. For seven months the United States would be without a legislative body. The President would be supreme.

France is fighting for her life, but her legislature remains at its post. Britain faces her darkest hour, but her legislature is on guard. We face critical days and momentous decisions. It is proposed that our legislature go home, and stay home.

It is true that the President may reconvene Congress in special session. But it is also true that he may not do so. He likes a free hand and dislikes free speech. Suppose the people want Congress to reassemble and the President does not.

PETTENGILL. While public sympathy is overwhelmingly in favor of the Allies, it is equally opposed to getting into the war. The people believe Congress agrees with them. Millions do not have the confidence they would like to have that Mr. Roosevelt is as determined as they are on this matter.

The Constitution provides that "The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall begin at noon on the 3rd day of January unless fixed by law, appoint a different day." It also provides that "a majority of each house shall constitute a quorum to do business, but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day."

Whether in addition to its meeting "at least once in every year" Congress could reconvene itself without a call from or over the objection of the President, is a point that to my knowledge has never been decided. If it did convene and declare itself legally reassembled, would the Supreme Court, even the present Supreme Court, declare that it is an unconstitutional body and its acts null and void? I do not think so. For if Congress is required to assemble "at least once in every year" it would appear that it could assemble more than once in every year, as it might itself decide.

But granting this, practical difficulties appear. Who would issue the call to reconvene? Majority Leaders Rayburn and Barkley? Would they, I say, over the President's objection? It is not likely.

The safe thing is for Congress to refuse to adjourn sine die. It will not be necessary to remain in continuous session. It may adjourn from day to day, or from week to week. A skeleton organization can do this. But at any time a majority of those present, even though only a dozen, could refuse to adjourn further, and then, as the Constitution provides, they can "compel the attendance of absent members." In this way Congress can be maintained in existence as a vital part of a free government. If it reconvened on the first of every month, for example, it would be a wakeful watchdog of the Nation's safety. At the same time this would permit members to go home to campaign and find out what we, the people, want.

It is high time for the American people to requicken their confidence in Congress, and to have a Congress that deserves that confidence. This is no time to discard the weapons by which a constitutional government protects itself against the unceasing encroachment of executive power.

We need criticism and discussion today as never before. France has it. Britain has it. Their Prime Ministers have to give a constant account of their actions to the people through their chosen representatives. If Parliament had adjourned, for example, the umbrella would still be England's lightning rod.

Don't we need the Dies Committee today as never before? Norway had no Dies Committee. Mr. Roosevelt has never liked the Dies Committee and probably does not now.

After terrific pounding in Congress for years, Mr. Roosevelt has finally transferred immigration and deportation of aliens from Frances Perkins' tender care. Would he have done so except for Congress? He has finally become aroused over the menace of the "fifth column," although only a few weeks ago he vetoed a bill to deport aliens who are dope fiends. And so they remain in our midst.

While Mr. Roosevelt deserves a good deal of credit for such national defense as we have (such as it is!) the fact remains that Congress has been much more alive to many dangerous situations than he.

The country will have less jitters and more courage if there is retained in Washington, as in London and Paris, a body which can call executive officials to account. Let your Congressman know how you feel about this.

SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL.

SWING DECLINES
ASSIGNMENT

Sinclair Lewis offered Raymond Gram Swing the leading part of Doremus Jessup in his summer theatre presentation of "It Can't Happen Here." Mr. Swing had to decline the offer because of his manifold broadcast activities.

When that objection was raised, Lewis was willing to re-write the play in such a manner that Swing could do his actual broadcasts from the stage of the theatre. This too was impossible, for Raymond Gram Swing writes every line of the material he broadcasts which causes him to work a twelve-hour day.

Lewis said Swing looked the part of the small-town Vermont editor as he visualized him. The author felt the commentator would have been perfect in the difficult role.

Mr. Swing's program is heard over the Mutual network Mondays and Fridays at 9:00 p. m.

OBERON AND BRENT

Merle Oberon, George Brent, and Pat O'Brien, the same trio who acted in the recent movie version of "Til We Meet Again" will present the moving story in the Radio Theatre on Monday, June 10. Cecil B. DeMille produces the full-hour dramatic program that's heard over the Columbia network at 8:00 p. m.

This is the love story of two people who have never done very much with their lives, and who meet when it is too late. Merle Oberon plays the part of the tragic Joan Ames, who knows a heart ailment will prevent her living very long. George Brent will enact the role of Dan Hardesty, a convicted murderer who is being taken back to the United States to be hanged.

BING'S GUESTS

The well-known soprano of opera fame, Suzanne Fisher, and John Payne, one the up and coming leading men of the films, have promised Bing Crosby to hand him their calling cards for a Music Hall visit Thursday, June 6. The leading and only exponent of the bazooka, Robin Burns, the Music Mads, Ken Carpenter, and John Scott Trotter's orchestra fill the bill for the airing over the NBC red network at 9 p. m.

Bing Crosby is ever on the alert to introduce young Hollywood talent on his program. He has presented John Payne on a previous

The village council was in session Monday evening with all hands on the job and "rearin' to go," one of the members said. Bills amounting to $302.25 were paid. Mayor Fred Hines, to fill the two vacancies on the board of public affairs caused by the deaths of Grover Cline and Taylor Brintlinger appointed C. A. Higley and Ed. F. Schlegel. The mayor is to be commended for his selections which will meet with general approval.

The Eastlawn sewer work is getting under way again since the rain made an adjournment. Some forty workers are on the job.

Ex-Justice Sherman Hoover has taken over for operation the Cooper West Side gas station. He is assisted by Robert Hoover, his son. Mr. Hoover's used car sales will not be discontinued.

Meinhard Crites, of the Crites Cannery here, told us that if he weather continues favorable, the pea pack will begin about the 15th of the month. Prospects are good for a sizeable crop of fine quality goods.

Junior Marion, the little son of Maynard and Mrs. Marion, while at play Sunday, fell and came through with an ugly cut on the knee which Doctor Schiff stitched up and made "good as ever." Doctor Gardner told us that his mother-in-law, Mrs. Flora Welch lies in a critical condition at her home on Long Street.

Our ball team came through a poor second best at the local grounds Sunday. Laurelville seemed to have had the better team. Some costly infield errors spoiled the chances of a win. The score was 8 to 2.

Curry & Gregg with their working force are erecting a cement block building at the Scioto Grain elevator grounds in size, 16 x 20, and to be used for housing grain and seed cleaning equipment. The "North House" elevator company is "coming on fine" with the erection of their 32 x 60 frame storage building. William (Peck) Wilson is general director in charge of construction. RADIO BRIEFS

Ezra Stone, star of "The Aldrich Family," which takes over Jack Benny's spot for the summer June 23, will have charge of the George Abbott play producing office during most of the hot weather season. Abbott will be in Hollywood supervising production of the movie version of "Too Many Girls."

Joseph Cotton goes to the coast to appear in an Orson Welles picture and to play opposite Martha Scott in "Career of Alice Blair," which will come from Hollywood in the future.

Sunda Love's "Stepmother" series is making cast changes for the summer. Latest addition to Miss Love's supporting cast is Bess McCammon.

Frankie Masters will make a film short for Warner Brothers early this summer featuring Marian Francis and the Four Swing-Masters. Masters, incidentally, will do a series of recordings for Vocalion in which he'll bring back the jazz songs of the past.

Josef Romay, new continental singer in Horace Heidt's "Pot 'o Gold" troupe, already has been contracted to record an album of cute dialect songs.

Burns at Grand

BOB Burns, the fun-loving man with the bazooka and the relatives, will be back in all his glory in the new comedy, "Alias The Deacon," which opens at the Grand Theatre Wednesday. He is the same Burns who created a new kind of screen humor a few years back. And he is all the more refreshing now because he is back again with the familiar Burns character.

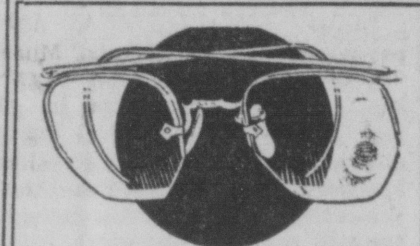

MARYSVILLE BRASS FIRM
ATTEMPTS TO END STRIKE

MARYSVILLE, June 4 — Officials of the Fisher Brass Foundry, Inc., today attempted to negotiate the strike of 300 workers, who struck for a closed shop and wage increases. It was the first labor difficulty for the company since the union was organized two years ago.

The union asked a new contract, a closed shop, and a wage increase to 85 cents hourly for skilled workmen and 55 cents for laborers.

ANNUAL OUTING FOR ORPHANS TO BE HELD JUNE 17

The Columbus Automobile Club will hold its thirty-fifth annual Orphans' Outing at the Columbus Zoo on Monday, June 17. The club has made arrangements to collect these children at the homes in the morning and take them to the Zoo for an all day outing. We have also made arrangements for refreshments of all kinds, a splendid picnic lunch to be served at noon, plenty of rides at the Zoo Amusement Park, and each home will be furnished with permanent games and equipment to be used throughout the year.

Transportation will be furnished by the bus companies and members' private cars. The whole expense of this day's outing is furnished by contributions from the members of the Automobile Club. Each year we try to make this one of the outstanding days in the lives of these children and the support of your community will be highly appreciated.

All the orphaned children from Franklin, Madison, Union, Delaware, and Pickaway Counties together with the children from the religious orphanages in this territory, will attend.

The outing is in charge of a committee composed of Tom Sabrey, chairman, George Burba, Simon Lazarus, J. M. Vercoe, Byron Redman, Mrs. Gustav Bruder, Col. William H. Duffy, George Schmidt, Leo Haenlein, Alex Krumm, treasurer, Harvard Stewart and Arthur Johnson, Sr.

WARD BACK IN HOSPITAL

COLUMBUS, June 4 — Columbus Safety Director George M. Ward, recently released from a hospital after being injured in an auto collision near Wilmington April 10, was back for a check-up today. Ward had returned to his official duties, but a sharp pain in his chest caused him to return for an X-ray reexamination of his injuries. Relatives said he would remain in the hospital for two or three days.

O.S.U. STUDENTS CLOSE TO END OF SCHOOL YEAR

Examinations Being Taken At University; Activity On Schedule

MANY TO RETURN HOME

Commencement On Schedule For Monday, June 10, At 5 P. M. In Stadium

Circleville and Pickaway County students at Ohio State University are now in the midst of final examinations, preliminary to the close of the year's work.

Ohio State's annual alumni college comes Thursday and Friday, with a program of speakers and round-tables intended to give alumni and others a greater knowledge of the background and trends of affairs in Europe. Admission to all sessions is free.

Saturday is "Alumni Day," with the annual inter-city golf tournament, a clinic and luncheon for law graduates, class reunions, dedication of the new men's residence hall, sunset supper in the gymnasium, and the all-alumni dance.

Events of Sunday, June 9, are baccalaureate, at 3 p. m., and the senior class supper and class day program at 5:30 p. m.

Program for Monday, June 10, includes President and Mrs. Howard L. Bevis' reception for graduates and their parents at 2 p. m., and commencement at 5 p. m. in the stadium.

Members of the Ohio State student body who will be arriving home this week end for the vacation period are:

Ashville: — Robert Balthaser, Guy Cline, Roberta Cromley, Ann Gebhardt, James Gray, Walter Gregg, Edgar Hedges, Gretchen Hedges, Jasper Hedges, Richard Hedges, Charles Higley, Hugh Lamb, Ira Martin, A. Gayle Michael, William Newton, Harriet Nothstine, Robert Perrill, Mary Peters, Anne Reber, Howard Reed, Richard Wells.

Commercial Point — Twila Sprouse.

Duval: — Rebecca Baum, Harry Vincent.

Lockbourne: — Leah Vause.

New Holland: — Charles Ater, John Dick, Audrey Mace, Erma Mace, Robert Maddex, Phillip Maddex, John Peck, Martha Roth, Addie Skinner, Juanita Skinner.

Orient: — Alston Alsbaugh, Edward Kennedy, Lawrence Neal, Betty Wardell, Robert Whiteside.

Stoutsville: — Harold Marshall.

Williamsport: — J. Wiley Campbell, Harry Carter, Martha Tip-ton.

Countians who have enrolled at the university for the spring quarter who were not in attendance the last quarter include Harold J. Bowers and Carl D. Bennett of Ashville and Jeannette Reichelderfer of Circleville.

Donald W. Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wray Henry, has been initiated into the Forum Club, speech professional society, at the university.

FARBEANN TO VISIT TWO AREAS IN REICHLEY HUNT

LOGAN, June 4—Sheriff Joe Farbeann revealed Monday that he expects to spend several days this week in West Virginia and Kentucky in connection with his investigation into the disappearance of Conrad H. (Con) Reichley, missing from his home near South Bloomingville for almost three months.

Several hundred posters, each bearing a likeness of the bearded Hocking Countian, were prepared last week and are being distributed to sheriffs and to police offices in Ohio and nearby states.

Sheriff Farbeann will take a supply of these posters to Kentucky and West Virginia and at the same time inquire into a report that Reichley was seen in that state only a few weeks ago.

LANCASTER'S POPULATION GOES TO 21,886 SINCE '30

CHILLICOTHE, June 4 — Lancaster has an increase in population of 3,170 over the 1930 enumeration, according to official census figures announced Tuesday by Herbert J. Mattox, district census supervisor. This brings Lancaster's total population to 21,886. Mattox said that he believed the increase was due to industrial extension of corporation limits.

PETTENGILL "The Gentleman from Indiana"

KEEP CONGRESS IN SESSION

Washington talks about Congress adjourning around June 8. If it does, there is no assurance that it will convene again until the newly elected Congress meets next January. For seven months the United States would be without a legislative body. The President would be supreme.

France is fighting for her life, but her legislature remains at its post. Britain faces her darkest hour, but her legislature is on guard. We face critical days and momentous decisions. It is proposed that our legislature go home, and stay home.

It is true that the President may reconvene Congress in special session. But it is also true that he may not do so. He likes a free hand and dislikes free speech. Suppose the people want Congress to re-assemble and the President does not.

PETTENGILL While public sympathy is overwhelmingly in favor of the Allies, it is equally opposed to getting into the war. The people believe Congress agrees with them. Millions do not have the confidence they would like to have that Mr. Roosevelt is as determined as they are on this matter.

The Constitution provides that "The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall begin at noon on the 3rd day of January unless they shall, by law, appoint a different day." It also provides that "a majority of each house shall constitute a quorum to do business, but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day."

Whether in addition to its meeting "at least once in every year" Congress could reconvene itself without a call from or over the objection of the President, is a point that to my knowledge has never been decided. If it did convene and declare itself legally re-assembled, would the Supreme Court, even the present Supreme Court, declare that it is an unconstitutional body and its acts null and void? I do not think so. For if Congress is required to assemble "at least once in every year" it would appear that it could assemble more than once in every year, as it might itself decide.

But granting this, practical difficulties appear. Who would issue the call to reconvene? Majority Leaders Rayburn and Barkley? Would they, I say, over the President's objection? It is not likely.

The safe thing is for Congress to refuse to adjourn sine die. It will not be necessary to remain in continuous session. It may adjourn from day to day, or from week to week. A skeleton organization can do this. But at any time a majority of those present, even though only a dozen, could refuse to adjourn further, and then, as the Constitution provides, they can "compel the attendance of absent members." In this way Congress can be maintained in existence as a vital part of a free government. If it reconvened on the first of every month, for example, it would be a wakeful watchdog of the Nation's safety. At the same time this would permit members to go home to campaign and find out what we, the people, want.

It is high time for the American people to requicken their confidence in Congress, and to have a Congress that deserves that confidence. This is no time to discard the weapons by which a constitutional government protects itself against the unceasing encroachment of executive power.

We need criticism and discussion today as never before. France has it. Britain has it. Their Prime Ministers have to give a constant account of their actions to the people through their chosen representatives. If Parliament had adjourned, for example, the umbrella would still be England's lightning rod.

Don't we need the Dies Committee today as never before? Norway had no Dies Committee. Mr. Roosevelt has never liked the Dies Committee and probably does not now.

After terrific pounding in Congress for years, Mr. Roosevelt has finally transferred immigration and deportation of aliens from Frances Perkins' tender care. Would he have done so except for Congress? He has finally become aroused over the menace of the "fifth column," although only a few weeks ago he vetoed a bill to deport aliens who are dope fiends. And so they remain in our midst.

While Mr. Roosevelt deserves a good deal of credit for such national defense as we have (such as it is!) the fact remains that Congress has been much more alive to many dangerous situations than he.

The country will have less jitters and more courage if there is retained in Washington, as in London and Paris, a body which can call executive officials to account. Let your Congressman know now you feel about this.

SWING DECLINES ASSIGNMENT

Sinclair Lewis offered Raymond Gram Swing the leading part of Doremus Jessup in his summer theatre presentation of "It Can't Happen Here." Mr. Swing had to decline the offer because of his manifold broadcast activities.

When that objection was raised, Lewis was willing to re-write the play in such a manner that Swing could do his actual broadcasts from the stage of the theatre. This too was impossible, for Raymond Gram Swing writes every line of the material he broadcasts which causes him to work a twelve-hour day.

Lewis said Swing looked the part of the small-town Vermont editor as he visualized him. The author felt the commentator would have been perfect in the difficult role.

Mr. Swing's program is heard over the Mutual network Mondays and Fridays at 9:00 p. m.

OBERON AND BRENT

Merle Oberon, George Brent, and Pat O'Brien, the same trio who acted in the recent movie version of "Til We Meet Again" will present the moving story in the Radio Theatre on Monday, June 10. Cecil B. DeMille produces the full-hour dramatic program that's heard over the Columbia network at 8:00 p. m.

This is the love story of two people who have never done very much with their lives, and who meet when it is too late. Merle Oberon plays the part of the tragic Joan Ames, who knows a heart ailment will prevent her living very long. George Brent will enact the role of Dan Hardesty, a convicted murderer who is being taken back to the United States to be hanged.

BING'S GUESTS

The well-known soprano of opera fame, Suzanne Fisher, and John Payne, one the up and coming leading men of the films, have promised Bing Crosby to hand him their calling cards for a Music Hall visit Thursday, June 6. The leading and only exponent of the bazooka, Robin Burns, the Music Mads, Ken Carpenter, and John Scott Trotter's orchestra fill the bill for the airing over the NBC red network at 9 p. m.

VILLAGE MAYOR PLACES TWO ON AFFAIRS BOARD

C. A. Higley, E. F. Schlegel To Serve In Vacancies Caused By Death

SEWER JOB GOES ON

Crites To Start Pea Pack About June 15, Weather Permitting

By S. D. Fridley Phone, Ashville 79

The village council was in session Monday evening with all hands on the job and "rearin' to go," one of the members said. Bills amounting to $302.25 were paid. Mayor Fred Hines, to fill the two vacancies on the board of public affairs caused by the deaths of Grover Cline and Taylor Brintlinger appointed C. A. Higley and Ed. F. Schlegel. The mayor is to be commended for his selections which will meet with general approval.

The Eastlawn sewer work is getting under way again since the rain made an adjournment. Some forty workers are on the job.

Ex-Justice Sherman Hoover has taken over for operation the Cooper West Side gas station. He is assisted by Robert Hoover, his son. Mr. Hoover's used car sales will not be discontinued.

Meinhard Crites, of the Crites Cannery here, told us that if he weather continues favorable, the pea pack will begin about the 15th of the month. Prospects are good for a sizeable crop of fine quality goods.

Junior Marion, the little son of Maynard and Mrs. Marion, while at play Sunday, fell and came through with an ugly cut on the knee which Doctor Schiff stitched up and made "good as ever." Doctor Gardner told us that his mother-in-law, Mrs. Flora Welch lies in a critical condition at her home on Long Street.

Our ball team came through a poor second best at the local grounds Sunday. Laureville seemed to have had the better team. Some costly infield errors spoiled the chances of a win. The score was 8 to 2.

Curry & Gregg with their working force are erecting a cement block building at the Scioto Grain elevator grounds in size, 16 x 20, and to be used for housing grain and seed cleaning equipment. The "North House" elevator company is "coming on fine" with the erection of their 32 x 60 frame storage building. William (Peck) Wilson is general director in charge of construction. A trip out on the East side will be made today to inspect sewer work and some of the new dwellings out there.

occasion thus making this a return appearance by "popular request."

RADIO BRIEFS

Ezra Stone, star of "The Aldrich Family," which takes over Jack Benny's spot for the summer June 23, will have charge of the George Abbott play producing office during most of the hot weather season. Abbott will be in Hollywood supervising production of the movie version of "Too Many Girls."

Joseph Cotton goes to the coast to appear in an Orson Welles picture and to play opposite Martha Scott in "Career of Alice Blair," which will come from Hollywood in the future.

Sunda Love's "Stepmother" series is making cast changes for the summer. Latest addition to Miss Love's supporting cast is Bess McCammon.

Frankie Masters will make a film short for Warner Brothers early this summer featuring Marian Francis and the Four Swing-Masters. Masters, incidentally, will do a series of recordings for Vocalion in which he'll bring back the jazz songs of the past.

Josette Romay, new continental singer in Horace Heidt's "Pot o' Gold" troupe, already has been contracted to record an album of cute dialect songs.

Burns at Grand

BOB Burns, the fun-loving man with the bazooka and the relatives, will be back in all his glory in the new comedy, "Alias The Deacon," which opens at the Grand Theatre Wednesday. He is the same Burns who created a new kind of screen humor a few years back. And he is all the more refreshing now because he is back again with the familiar Burns character.

MARYSVILLE BRASS FIRM ATTEMPTS TO END STRIKE

MARYSVILLE, June 4 — Officials of the Fisher Brass Foundry, Inc., today attempted to negotiate the strike of 300 workers, who struck for a closed shop and wage increases. It was the first labor difficulty for the company since the union was organized two years ago.

The union asked a new contract, a closed shop, and a wage increase to 85 cents hourly for skilled workmen and 55 cents for laborers.

ANNUAL OUTING FOR ORPHANS TO BE HELD JUNE 17

The Columbus Automobile Club will hold its thirty-fifth annual Orphans' Outing at the Columbus Zoo on Monday, June 17. The club has made arrangements to collect these children at the homes in the morning and take them to the Zoo for an all day outing. We have also made arrangements for refreshments of all kinds, a splendid picnic lunch to be served at noon, plenty of rides at the Zoo Amusement Park, and each home will be furnished with permanent games and equipment to be used throughout the year.

Transportation will be furnished by the bus companies and members' private cars. The whole expense of this day's outing is furnished by contributions from the members of the Automobile Club. Each year we try to make this one of the outstanding days in the lives of these children and the support of your community will be highly appreciated.

All the orphaned children from Franklin, Madison, Union, Delaware, and Pickaway Counties together with the children from the religious orphanages in this territory, will attend.

The outing is in charge of a committee composed of Tom Sabe, chairman, George Burba, Simon Lazarus, J. M. Vercoe, Byron Redman, Mrs. Gustav Bruder, Col. William H. Duffy, George Schmidt, Leo Haenlein, Alex Krumm, treasurer, Harvard Stewart and Arthur Johnson, Sr.

WHAT ABOUT SCRAP?

ITALY'S normal imports of scrapiron from the United States have been 150,000 tons a year. Since the beginning of this year they have been rising in volume. In the last few days that country has placed orders here for 250,000 tons of scrap steel.

Can there be doubt in anyone's mind that this metal is to be used for war against the democracies, either by Italy itself or by Germany? To many Americans it comes as an appalling thought that while this country is debating how much, if any, help it should give the Allies, it should continue to help arm the Allies' enemies.

Tom Girdler, president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, said recently that we should conserve our scrap metal as a vital munitions resource for our own defense. Why don't we? Here is a matter that ought to have the prompt attention of Congress, and the agreement of isolationists should be as heartfelt as that of the legislators who favor giving as much help as possible to England and France.

We have sold ten million tons of scrap to Japan in the last six years. A consulting engineer of the Iron and Steel Institute says of such transactions. "A large part of our 20 years' accumulation of scrap metal has been sold to warring nations for a mere bagatelle of its war value. Without America's scrap iron and steel there would have been no Japanese war in China."

QUINNS SHOW HOW

THE quintuplets probably received less public attention on their sixth birthday than they've had since their birth. More immediately absorbing matters had first place in the public's mind and heart. Also, the world is beginning to take the famous little sisters somewhat for granted. It still admires them, but it no longer hangs breathlessly on every bit of news about them.

No doubt, however, a host of today's infants and toddlers might well be grateful that the quintuplets were born, if they knew anything about it. Experience gained in saving the lives of those particular babies and in raising them in good health and spirits has been widely shared and discussed. Many other babies will receive wiser care because their parents were impressed by the success of the methods used on the little girls of Callender.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE.... Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a day of soaring temperatures, the first Summer-like day of the year. And few complained. Soon saddened by news of the death of Robert Anderson, that grand old gentleman, who passed my window as regularly as the morning sun. A smile and a cheery word from the man who could have lived alone with rich memories, but who was of the world today. Many the far away places of the world knew Robert Anderson, the engineer. He had seen all the continents, all the great cities. Yet, when his active work was done he returned here to spend his last years. And they were spent happily among old friends who respected him. Yes, a fine gentleman. I know that my life is richer for having known him and having him regard me as friend.

There go school children, happy in the first day of their Summer vacation and looking happily and confidently into the future. Their picture varies from that seen by we of the older generations. That, I think, is as it should be. Years and experience fit us to shoulder the burdens that we all must carry sooner or later. Let those youngsters gaze through rose-colored glasses as long as they will. Right now the world is their plumb. Not so long and they will belong to the world to be tossed about as fate wills. Fortune will smile on some of them, frown on others. Encourage them to smile while they may.

I for one wish that world responsibility could be handed over to the youngsters. We

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

MIRACLE NEEDED TO HALT NAZIS

WASHINGTON—Outside of Army and Navy circles a vague but persistent optimism seems to pervade Washington that the Allies will come out all right.

"France and Britain just cannot lose," is the typical remark of Washington dowerers. "I'm sure that at the last moment they will come through."

But a careful study of the confidential war bulletins received by the Army and Navy give absolutely no grounds for such optimism. In fact, to use the bluntest language, it will take a military miracle to prevent an overwhelming German victory, including the occupation of London.

And unfortunately, miracles in modern warfare occur on the side with the most tanks and airplanes.

The fighting which took place in Flanders last week probably was the most desperate in the history of the world, even bloodier than the Battles of the Marne and Verdun. Corpses were piled high. The trapped French and British made the Germans pay in floods of blood for every foot they advanced. They knew that most of them had no chance of escaping, but their objective was to weaken the Germans, give time to General Weygand to strengthen the defenses of Paris.

The key to this war (and also to American defense) is to remember that khaki does not stop machine-gun bullets, while tanks do. Also that it is impossible to whip an enemy whose airplanes can spy out every move and blast that move even before it gets started.

ROY HOWARD'S ARMISTICE

Dynamic Roy Howard, smartly-attired little boss of the Scripps-Howard newspapers and frequent critic of the New Deal, breezed into the executive offices for a conference with the President. White House reporters immediately rushed forward to interview him.

First question was popped by Felix Belair, crack New York Times newsman. With deadpan innocence, he inquired: "Bringing an armistice, Mr. Howard?"

Howard, whose premature "scoop" on the signing of the World War armistice in 1918 is a newspaper epic, joined in the burst of laughter.

U. S. RIFLES TO ALLIES??

There is something awfully funny about the War Department order of March 14, 1940, prohibiting the sale of surplus Army goods to anyone who might even be suspected of passing them on to the Allies.

The President of the United States has outlined a policy of helping the Allies in every possible way short of war. The Cabinet has worked out a policy of selling the Allies airplanes previously ordered by the Army. And yet the War Department has issued an order preventing the sale of its surplus goods to any agent of the Allies or anyone even suspected of being an agent.

All this came to light last week when the French and British purchasing missions attempted to buy some Enfield rifles and some 75-MM. field artillery guns held by the Army from the World War.

This in itself indicates how desperate is the position of the Allies. One year ago, these guns were considered out of date.

The Enfields are part of 3,000,000 guns manufactured during the World War, in part for the British Army. About a million were sold to the Chinese, leaving

DIET AND HEALTH

Explains the Mysteries of Acids, Alkalies

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

● I HEAR a good many questions which show a puzzled state of mind, and go something like this:

"Fruit juices are acid; therefore, they should produce a condition of acidity in the body. Yet doctors say that they really turn to alkaline salts and produce alkalinity rather than acidity. If this is so, why is it that in cases of ulcer of the stomach they irritate rather than soothe, whereas if they turned to alkalies they should neutralize the acidity that is present in stomach ulcer and make the condition better?"

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

It is true that fruit juices are acid. It is also true that they are turned to alkaline salts and do not produce real acidity. It is also true that they irritate an acid dyspepsia whereas an alkali should soothe it.

Change Comes Later
The answer is that fruit juices do not act as an alkali in the stomach. All fruits have organic acids and these acids form alkaline salts but they do so in the intestine. While they are in the stomach they are still acid and, therefore, irritate or make worse an acid dyspepsia or a stomach ulcer.

A great many people are afraid to eat tomatoes or lemons because they think they will produce a condition of acidity and cause symptoms like rheumatism or stiffness of the fingers and joints. This is not true. These juices are rapidly put out of the stomach and turned to alkaline salts in the intestine and in that condition enter the blood.

The only exception to this statement is that prunes and cranberries do turn into acid salts.

Summer Vaccination
Is it safe to vaccinate children in the summer?

Yes. In fact, summer is a very good time to catch up on immunizations if they have not been done before. Some physicians prefer to vaccinate against smallpox in the spring or autumn but there does not seem to be any scientific reason advanced why or how hot weather affects a vaccination unfavorably. Perhaps a little more precaution about infection of the vaccination wound is required in the summer on account of the possibility of sweat infecting it or the more moist condition of the skin predisposing the maceration and sloughing, but these are easy to overcome.

One other precaution is for the doctor to remember — smallpox vaccine dies readily in very hot weather and if the stock is not kept in refrigeration the vaccination will not "take." But vaccine virus is so regularly kept refrigerated that this reminder seems hardly necessary.

If for some reason a child has not been vaccinated against diphtheria, whooping cough, typhoid fever and smallpox before entering school, the first vacation period is an excellent time to remedy this.

If camp activity is planned, it should be remembered that the child who is being immunized may be deprived of swimming or playing in the sand for a week or two after any vaccination, but this, again, is an easy matter of adjustment.

Essentially — that is, scientifically — there is no reason why vaccination should not be done in the summer.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

BILL DID not see Lola Montes on the day after the play because she did not come to the mansion. But as he worked and directed the work of clearing the theater, sending back the rented chairs, replacing the furniture, tearing away the temporary stage, he did a deal of thinking.

It hurt him to feel that Lola was guilty of theft. Lola was beautiful. She typified the Mexican senorita famous in story and song. Somewhere "down Mexico way" he himself might have fallen desperately in love with just such a person, he realized, and he knew she would tear a man's heart out with the fierceness and passion of her devotion. She was that type; quiet, but powerful.

"And she's probably as dangerous as she is pretty," he mused here tonight. "A thief, smart enough to do what she did and get by with it, is likely to have all manner of intrigue in her soul."

He liked to meditate on such things. Somehow it gave him a tingle of interest and excitement, and he did not realize that this was merely the boy in him. Some men never grow up. Part of Bill Bailey's charm was the fact that, in spite of his "maturity" of 24 years, he was often like a lad of 14.

Thinking about her, therefore, he built up quite a romantic circumstance around pretty Lola, entirely in his mind. He envisioned her as embittered by some lost love down in New Mexico. Possibly she had killed a rival—didn't senoritas always carry daggers hidden in their hair, or somewhere?—and possibly she was wanted by police down there.

Christo-pher, she probably was! The police here had known about her. They had seen the six girls' photos in the paper that first time and recognized a criminal among them immediately, then sent a detective out to work in the Merrifield home. Doubtless, when they "got the goods" on her here, they could send her back to New Mexico for trial as well.

There were some flaws in Bill's hurried reasoning, but the sadness of it dominated his astuteness now. He felt badly about the whole affair because, in all truth, he liked Lola. He saw Gayle Dixon come out a side door of the mansion—the hour was just after dinner now—and he decided to talk it over with her.

"Sit down," he invited, making room on the stone bench where he sat under the trees. "Lola is nice, isn't she?"

"Lola? . . . How tactless, Bill Bailey! You invite me to sit with you, and at once tell me how pretty another girl is."

Bill grinned. "I didn't say pretty. But she is. I said nice."

"It's the same thing. Anyway, I can't be angry. Yes, she's nice."

"You, uh—how do you know what I'm thinking?"

"I can guess. Maybe. I hate to think of it, but—well, is there any proof? Anything but thoughts?"

Bill nodded. "I'm sorry to say there is."

"Oh, Bill!"

He nodded again, in agreement now. "I understand. It hurts, doesn't it? I told you she was nice. I like her, matter of fact."

"Bill, Lola's a darling. I mean—well, goodness, she is gentle and kind, even if she is very shy at times. And she looks as if she were longing so for something, possibly for happiness. I just can't think that she—"

"Facts are facts, Gayle. I was sitting here musing about her myself. She's been swell, though. She's helped a lot with Jeremy. I notice her doing what we asked—drawing Jeremy out of his shell. She talks to him, and even sings to him sometimes."

"She signs beautifully."

"No argument about that. But if "You invite me to sit with you and tell me how pretty another girl is."

she's a thief—you know, Gayle, it seems to me that a pretty girl, criminal is a sort of, uh, storybook character. Why, I bet I could write a play around her. Maybe she could act in it! Wouldn't that be something?"

Gayle smiled. She spoke now in low tones. "Yes, but surely you don't think she should stay here. Unless you want to be sure of your ground, or something. I mean—well, after all, Bill, you haven't actually told me anything!"

He gave thought to that, leaning back and wriggling his white shoes and appearing to stare at them. "No," said he. "I don't think I ought to. Not now."

He didn't know it, but again he was acting very much like a little boy. A lad with a precious secret, who is driven by sheer masculine perversity not to tell. Gayle looked at him in open exasperation. She wanted to grab him and shake him. It was as if he were 10 and she were eight, and he had just pulled her hair and run.

They saw Jeremy come out of the house alone and stand looking off speculatively toward the street, down the long driveway.

"Yonder's your boy friend," Bill said, half perversely. "Better go wipe his nose for him."

"Bill!" Gayle glared at him now. "I was kidding," he declared.

"You're in an impossible mood. I think I will go join Jeremy. So there!"

She left him peremptorily, and Bill's heart sank several notches. He realized he had said things and acted so that matters went contrary to his real desire. He wondered why.

In truth, there were two or three causes for his smoldering misery. For one thing, his discovery of Lola Montes's "guilt" was a great disturbance to him, now that the rushing excitement of the play had ended. He had hired her for Mr. Merrifield in the first place, and now it would be his task to discharge her, or see to it that she were arrested, or something. He liked Lola, and he earnestly disliked having to do any such thing.

But beyond all that was the fact that he was crazy for love of Gayle Dixon, and couldn't do anything about it. "The tell clutch of circumstance" (where had he heard that phrase, he wondered?) had him helpless. Right under his very eyes, even with his apparent sanction and encouragement, Gayle Dixon and Jeremy Tucker were coming nearer and doubtless dearer to each other day by day. He could see this subtle march of events which just wanted to give the younger folks a break.

WHAT ABOUT SCRAP?

ITALY'S normal imports of scrapiron from the United States have been 150,000 tons a year. Since the beginning of this year they have been rising in volume. In the last few days that country has placed orders here for 250,000 tons of scrap steel.

Can there be doubt in anyone's mind that this metal is to be used for war against the democracies, either by Italy itself or by Germany? To many Americans it comes as an appalling thought that while this country is debating how much, if any, help it should give the Allies, it should continue to help arm the Allies' enemies.

Tom Girdler, president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, said recently that we should conserve our scrap metal as a vital munitions resource for our own defense. Why don't we? Here is a matter that ought to have the prompt attention of Congress, and the agreement of isolationists should be as heartfelt as that of the legislators who favor giving as much help as possible to England and France.

We have sold ten million tons of scrap to Japan in the last six years. A consulting engineer of the Iron and Steel Institute says of such transactions. "A large part of our 20 years' accumulation of scrap metal has been sold to warring nations for a mere bagatelle of its war value. Without America's scrap iron and steel there would have been no Japanese war in China."

QUINNS SHOW HOW

THE quintuplets probably received less public attention on their sixth birthday than they've had since their birth. More immediately absorbing matters had first place in the public's mind and heart. Also, the world is beginning to take the famous little sisters somewhat for granted. It still admires them, but it no longer hangs breathlessly on every bit of news about them.

No doubt, however, a host of today's infants and toddlers might well be grateful that the quintuplets were born, if they knew anything about it. Experience gained in saving the lives of those particular babies and in raising them in good health and spirits has been widely shared and discussed. Many other babies will receive wiser care because their parents were impressed by the success of the methods used on the little girls of Callender.

Tommy Atkins will yet get even with Hitler for making him walk backwards.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a day of soaring temperatures, the first Summer-like day of the year. And few complained. Soon saddened by news of the death of Robert Anderson, that grand old gentleman, who passed my window as regularly as the morning sun. A smile and a cheery word from the man who could have lived alone with rich memories, but who was of the world today. Many the far away places of the world knew Robert Anderson, the engineer. He had seen all the continents, all the great cities. Yet, when his active work was done he returned here to spend his last years. And they were spent happily among old friends who respected him. Yes, a fine gentleman. I know that my life is richer for having known him and having him regard me as friend.

There go school children, happy in the first day of their Summer vacation and looking happily and confidently into the future. Their picture varies from that seen by we of the older generations. That, I think, is as it should be. Years and experience fit us to shoulder the burdens that we all must carry sooner or later. Let those youngsters gaze through rose-colored glasses as long as they will. Right now the world is their plum. Not so long and they will belong to the world to be tossed about as fate wills. Fortune will smile on some of them, frown on others. Encourage them to smile while they may.

I for one wish that world responsibility could be handed over to the youngsters. We

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

MIRACLE NEEDED TO HALT NAZIS

WASHINGTON—Outside of Army and Navy circles a vague put persistent optimism seems to pervade Washington that the Allies will come out all right.

"France and Britain just cannot lose," is the typical remark of Washington dowagers. "I'm sure that at the last moment they will come through."

But a careful study of the confidential war bulletins received by the Army and Navy give absolutely no grounds for such optimism. In fact, to use the bluntest language, it will take a military miracle to prevent an overwhelming German victory, including the occupation of London.

And unfortunately, miracles in modern warfare occur on the side with the most tanks and airplanes.

The fighting which took place in Flanders last week probably was the most desperate in the history of the world, even bloodier than the Battles of the Marne and Verdun. Corpses were piled house high. The trapped French and British made the Germans pay in floods of blood for every foot they advanced. They knew that most of them had no chance of escaping, but their objective was to weaken the Germans, give time to General Weygand to strengthen the defenses of Paris.

The key to this war (and also to American defense) is to remember that khaki does not stop machine-gun bullets, while tanks do. Also that it is impossible to whip an enemy whose airplanes can spy out every move and blast that move even before it gets started.

ROY HOWARD'S ARMISTICE

Dynamic Roy Howard, smartly-attired little boss of the Scripps-Howard newspapers and frequent critic of the New Deal, breezed into the executive offices for a conference with the President. White House reporters immediately rushed forward to interview him.

First question was popped by Felix Belair, crack New York Times newsman. With deadpan innocence, he inquired: "Bringing an armistice, Mr. Howard?"

Howard, whose premature "scoop" on the signing of the World War armistice in 1918 is a newspaper epic, joined in the burst of laughter.

U. S. RIFLES TO ALLIES??

There is something awfully funny about the War Department order of March 14, 1940, prohibiting the sale of surplus Army goods to anyone who might even be suspected of passing them on to the Allies.

The President of the United States has outlined a policy of helping the Allies in every possible way short of war. The Cabinet has worked out a policy of selling the Allies airplanes previously ordered by the Army. And yet the War Department has issued an order preventing the sale of its surplus goods to any agent of the Allies or anyone even suspected of being an agent.

All this came to light last week when the French and British purchasing missions attempted to buy some Enfield rifles and some 75-MM. field artillery guns held by the Army from the World War.

This in itself indicates how desperate is the position of the Allies. One year ago, these guns were considered out of date.

The Enfields are part of 3,000,000 guns manufactured during the World War, in part for the British Army. About a million were sold to the Chinese, leaving

DIET AND HEALTH

Explains the Mysteries of Acids, Alkalies

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

● I HEAR a good many questions which show a puzzled state of mind, and go something like this:

"Fruit juices are acid; therefore, they should produce a condition of acidity in the body. Yet doctors say that they really turn to alkaline salts and produce alkalinity rather than acidity. If this is so, why is it that in cases of ulcer of the stomach they irritate

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

rather than soothe, whereas if they turned to alkalies they should neutralize the acidity that is present in stomach ulcer and make the condition better?"

It is true that fruit juices are acid. It is also true that they are turned to alkaline salts and do not produce real acidity. It is also true that they irritate an acid dyspepsia whereas an alkali should soothe it.

Change Comes Later

The answer is that fruit juices do not act as an alkali in the stomach. All fruits have organic acids and these acids form alkaline salts but they do so in the intestine. While they are in the stomach they are still acid, and, therefore, irritate or make worse an acid dyspepsia or a stomach ulcer.

A great many people are afraid to eat tomatoes or lemons because they think they will produce a condition of acidity and cause symptoms like rheumatism or stiffness of the fingers and joints. This is not true. These juices are rapidly put out of the stomach and turned to alkaline salts in the intestine and in that condition enter the blood.

The only exception to this statement is that prunes and cranberries do turn into acid salts.

Summer Vaccination

Is it safe to vaccinate children in the summer?

Yes. In fact, summer is a very good time to catch up on immunizations if they have not been done before. Some physicians prefer to vaccinate against smallpox in the spring or autumn but there does not seem to be any scientific reason advanced why or how hot weather affects a vaccination unfavorably. Perhaps a little more precaution about infection of the vaccination wound is required in the summer on account of the possibility of sweat infecting it or the more moist condition of the skin predisposing the maceration and sloughing, but these are easy to overcome.

One other precaution is for the doctor to remember — smallpox vaccine dies readily in very hot weather and if the stock is not kept in refrigeration the vaccination will not "take." But vaccine virus is so regularly kept refrigerated that this reminder seems hardly necessary.

North, who hates minor suit contracts and loves No Trumps, took a terrific chance with his 3-No Trumps and was lucky to find that singleton heart K held by South. The latter, who had begun very conservatively, was richly justified in his leap to slam, since the side was not using any artificial conventions. Of course a diamond contract would have been far sounder.

Nobody could find fault with North's play, however. East led the heart A, then the 4 to the Q. North quickly saw he was safe if he could get all ten tricks in the minor suits. He started out running his five diamonds. When West discarded three hearts and a spade, and East the heart 2, nobody throwing a club, North felt sure one of the defenders was holding four clubs, almost certainly West, since there would not have been much reason for a player with just three clubs to the J to hold on to them.

Then North laid down the club A. When this dropped the 10, he considered it as marking a winning finesse against West's J. So he led the club 2 next, finessed the 8, cashed the Q, entered dummy with the spade A, then ran the last two clubs.

Of course, if East had held the club J-10 only, this play would have lost, but in that event West would have had only three little clubs and probably would have tossed one of them on diamonds.

Summer Cultivation
Cultivation of the soil is the key-stone of good gardening. Summer cultivation, however, should not be as deep as spring cultivation. During the summer season cultivate about 1 inch deep in the flower garden and 2 inches deep in the vegetable garden. Deeper cultivation might injure the roots of the plants.

Regular cultivation establishes a dust mulch, as shown in the accompanying drawing. This mulch helps greatly to conserve the moisture in the soil. In other words, the plants have more water available for their roots when the surface of the soil is insulated with a dust mulch than they would have if the soil surface is left unprotected.

Cultivation also helps to keep down weeds, aerates the soil, and makes it possible for rainfall to soak into the soil rather than run off as it does when the soil is packed hard.

For Tuesday, June 4

UNUSUAL and probably perplexing and deep-seated problems may come to the surface on this day, judging by the lunar and mutual aspects. While there may be surprising and sudden developments, with some sort of devastating or disruptive movement in attacking new ventures of moment, yet such effort attaches itself to large corporations, political or fraternal bodies, or other hidden sources of subtle influence if to be successfully managed. Writings or documents require due consideration, as peculiar quirks are seen. In private relations a similar unexpected and baffling development may be looked for.

Those whose birthday it is, may anticipate a year of surprises and quite unforeseen adventures, especially in new realism or circumstances. In disturbance and doubt it would be well to confer with political, fraternal or other behind the scenes influences for cooperation and success. Be shrewd and wary with writings or documents, which hold peculiar pitfalls or distortions. In romantic or emotional affiliations there should be also pleasant surprises. A child born on this day may be shrewd and profound, with much subtlety and craft, despite its good intentions. It may succeed by its originality and creative ability in connection with large corporations or political bodies.

Today's Garden-Graph

Summer Cultivation

Cultivation of the soil is the key-stone of good gardening. Summer cultivation, however, should not be as deep as spring cultivation. During the summer season cultivate about 1 inch deep in the flower garden and 2 inches deep in the vegetable garden. Deeper cultivation might injure the roots of the plants.

Regular cultivation establishes a dust mulch, as shown in the accompanying drawing. This mulch helps greatly to conserve the moisture in the soil. In other words, the plants have more water available for their roots than they would have if the soil surface is left unprotected.

Cultivation also helps to keep down weeds, aerates the soil, and makes it possible for rainfall to soak into the soil rather than run off as it does when the soil is packed hard.

KINGSTON

Mrs. Paul Montgomery was hostess to her Euchre Club, on Wednesday evening. Those present were Mrs. Lawrence Kerns, Mrs. Rufus Kerns, Mrs. Joe Butts, Mrs. Besse Immell, Mrs. Earl Hupp, Mrs. Eugene Jones and Mrs. Carl Miller. ## DESERTED IS LE PICKED AS HOME FOR "CRUSOE"

WOODS HOLE, Mass., —Minus even a Man Friday, the Bay State's Robinson Crusoe, lives in utter solitude on a deserted island ten miles off Martha's Vineyard off the Massachusetts Coast.

He is Amherst Eaton, caretaker of No Man's Island, bleak, windswept island privately owned by Joshua Crane, of London, England, and formerly of Dedham, Mass.

Unlike his predecessor, the caretaker of No Man's Island is unmarried. He is a graduate of the Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs, Conn., and only once a month hears a human voice other than his own when an aviator from the Falmouth airport delivers food and magazines and newspapers.

Scattered over the island are the relics of a past generation; days when the island was a thriving fishing community. Before the turn of the century farmers tilled the land and sold the produce in New Bedford and Martha's Vineyard. Cows, sheep and fowl were raised. Other residents hauled their wares from the Atlantic. Good prices were paid for salt cod. But the young people of the island's families moved away. The older folks clung to the island, but died off one after another until all slept peacefully in the island graveyard.

The Crane family bought the biggest part of the island. Since then only a caretaker has kept the lonely vigil.

The caretaker before Eaton was Cameron W. Wood. Last Spring when Wood was in a hospital a coastguardman daily rowed seven miles from Gay Head to milk the cow. When the cow did not need milking, Mrs. Wood, the caretaker's wife, flashed signals with a kitchen mirror.

TROTTER RACES BEGIN THURSDAY AT LANCASTER

The inaugural meeting of the Lancaster Trotting Horse Club will be held at the Fairgrounds, Lancaster, June 6, 7 and 8.

The race card on Friday, June 7, the second day of Lancaster's trotting meeting, June 6 to 8, will be the appearance of the 1939 winner of the $45,000 Hambletonian Stake, Peter Astra, 3, 2:02½. This great colt that in two seasons' racing as a two and three year old, won right at $60,000, and raced through the entire Grand Circuit season last year without a single defeat, rates as one of the greatest young trotters seen on the turf in many years.

Peter Astra is owned by Dr. L. M. Gullinger of Andover, Ohio, and has been trained and driven in all of his races by the country's leading race driver, Dr. H. M. Parrshall of Urbana, O. Dr. Parrshall has promised to give the Lancaster horse lovers the pleasure of seeing this sensational trotter in action, and will work him an exhibition mile during the racing of the Friday program.

The Thursday program will consist of 17 Pace Stake closed, 15 pace, 10 trot and 22 trot. Friday's card along with Peter Astra's exhibition, 13 class trot, 12 class and 18 and 3-Year-Old pace. Saturday's card, Free-for-All Pace, 14 and 17 trot and a 22 pace.

Down River For Dizzy; And At Star's Request

CHICAGO, June 4—Dizzy Dean, after many years of traveling a straight path along Major League baseball's glory road as one of the outstanding pitchers of the game, today came face to face with a detour sign that was expected to send him back to the minors.

The Chicago Cubs, who paid the St. Louis Cardinals $185,000 and $75,000 worth of players for the once great righthander three years ago, announced waivers have been obtained on Dean and that the pitcher, more or less at his own request, probably will be sent to the Cubs' Tulsa farm.

Just what action will be taken on the Dean case was to be decided today in talks between Cubs Owner P. K. Wrigley and Manager Gabby Hartnett, with Ol' Diz sitting in.

Charles Drake, assistant to Wrigley, said Dean himself was among those who thought a trip to the minors might help him. According to Drake, Dean began thinking of stepping down when old Tex Carleton pitched his no-hitter for Brooklyn a few weeks back. Drake quoted Dean as remarking:

"A year in the minors sure fixed Tex up. Why shouldn't it do the same for me?"

Diz himself was in temporary retirement following an auto accident Sunday in which he suffered a slight scalp wound, but Mrs. Dean agreed that new surroundings might be good for the big righthander.

"We'd be tickled to death at the chance to go to Tulsa," she said. "We know we've got a lot to find out about that arm. A good hot summer in Tulsa would be just the place for it. The doctors at Johns Hopkins Hospital said Diz would have to pitch side-arm all summer."

The Tulsa club, in the Texas League, is a Cub affiliate, so by farming Dean out the Cubs would not have lost title to him should he show signs of returning to his old form.

GLITT TEAM ON TOP IN CHILLICOTHE CONTEST

The Glitt team, Circleville entry in the Chillicothe Softball League defeated the Chillicothe Merchants, 9-7, Monday evening, overcoming a 6-5 margin gained by the Chillicotheans.

Ansel Roof, third sacker for the Glitt crew, featured the evening's play with two triples and a double. Lloyd Leasure pitched for the winners and gave up seven hits.

In the Glitt lineup were: Roby, ss, D. Nance, rs, Roese lf, Roof 3b, Purcell, 1b, Rowland cf, Stevens c, Eldridge rf, P. Nance 2b, and Leasure p.

Derringer Comes Through To Win Sixth After Battle With Bostonians

CINCINNATI, June 4—The New York Giants, who have surged to a point only 4½ games behind the league-leading Cincinnati Reds after a mediocre early season, invaded the lair of the loop leaders today for a pair of tilts this afternoon and tomorrow night.

Carl Hubbell, once named the greatest southpaw in baseball and doing his best lately to redon that mantle, will match slants today with Whitey Moore or Johnny VanderMeer of the Reds. Hubbell already has one decision over the hometowners.

All the scoring was over at the end of the first inning of yesterday's game, which saw husky Paul Derringer rack up his sixth victory at the expense of the Boston Bees. He allowed eight hits in marking up the 3 to 2 win. Lou Fette pitched three-hit relief ball for seven innings for the Bees, but the damage had been done.

The win enabled the Reds to maintain their two-game lead over the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers.

By International News Service
If the old saw that any team with two 20-game pitchers wins the pennant holds good this season, Alva Bradley, owner of the Cleveland Indians, today might just as well place his order for a flag pole on which to tack the 1940 American League banner.

In addition to Bob Feller, considered a sure-shot to cop 20 or more triumphs, the Indians now boast of Al Milnar, a southpaw who yesterday registered his seventh victory against one loss. Feller's record to date is eight wins and two defeats.

Milnar, who has looked impressive in every start this year, was at his best in shutting out the Philadelphia Athletics, 4 to 0, on seven scattered hits yesterday. Ray Mack, rookie second sacker, helped hoist the Tribe to within a game of the league-leading Boston Red Sox by collecting three hits, including his fourth home run of the year.

HEROES AND GOATS

HEROES — Dolph Camilli, Brooklyn first baseman, whose homer enabled the Dodgers to defeat the Chicago Cubs; Al Milnar, Cleveland pitcher, who won his seventh game of the season by shutting out the Philadelphia Athletics for the first time this year.

DESERTED ISLE PICKED AS HOME FOR "CRUSOE"

WOODS HOLE, Mass.,—Minus even a Man Friday, the Bay State's Robinson Crusoe, lives in utter solitude on a deserted isle ten miles off Martha's Vineyard off the Massachusetts Coast.

He is Amherst Eaton, caretaker of No Man's Island, bleak, windswept island privately owned by Joshua Crane, of London, England, and formerly of Dedham, Mass.

Unlike his predecessor, the caretaker of No Man's Island is unmarried. He is a graduate of the Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs, Conn., and only once a month hears a human voice other than his own when an aviator from the Falmouth airport delivers food and magazines and newspapers.

Scattered over the island are the relics of a past generation; days when the island was a thriving fishing community. Before the turn of the century farmers tilled the land and sold the produce in New Bedford and Martha's Vineyard. Cows, sheep and fowl were raised. Other residents hauled their wares from the Atlantic. Good prices were paid for salt cod.

But the young people of the island's families moved away. The older folks clung to the island, but died off one after another until all slept peacefully in the island graveyard.

The Crane family bought the biggest part of the island. Since then only a caretaker has kept the lonely vigil.

The caretaker before Eaton was Cameron W. Wood. Last Spring when Wood was in a hospital a coastguardman daily rowed seven miles from Gay Head to milk the cow. When the cow did not need milking, Mrs. Wood, the caretaker's wife, flashed signals with a kitchen mirror.

LICENSED SCANDALMONGERS
PORTLAND, Ore.,—City fathers missed a few opportunities to add to the civic coffers in the old days. An ordinance passed in 1907 making it "unlawful for any persons within the city of Portland to conduct himself as a scandal-monger without first obtaining a license" came to light recently. Licenses sold for $20 per month or a bargain price of $150 a year.

TROTTER RACES BEGIN THURSDAY AT LANCASTER

The inaugural meeting of the Lancaster Trotting Horse Club will be held at the Fairgrounds, Lancaster, June 6, 7 and 8.

The race card on Friday, June 7, the second day of Lancaster's trotting meeting, June 6 to 8, will be the appearance of the 1939 winner of the $45,000 Hambletonian Stake, Peter Astra, 3, 2:02 1/4. This great colt that in two seasons racing as a two and three year old, won right at $60,000, and raced through the entire Grand Circuit season last year without a single defeat, rates as one of the greatest young trotters seen on the turf in many years.

Peter Astra is owned by Dr. L. M. Guillinger of Andover, Ohio, and has been trained and driven in all of his races by the country's leading race driver, Dr. H. M. Parrish of Urbana, O. Dr. Parrish has promised to give the Lancaster horse lovers the pleasure of seeing this sensational trotter in action, and will work him an exhibition mile during the racing of the Friday Program.

The Thursday program will consist of 17 Pace Stake closed, 15 pace, 10 trot and 22 trot. Friday's card along with Peter Astra's exhibition, 18 class trot, 12 class and 18 and 3-Year-Old pace. Saturday's card, Free-for-All Pace, 14 and 17 trot and a 22 pace.

Down River For Dizzy; And At Star's Request

CHICAGO, June 4—Dizzy Dean, after many years of traveling a straight path along Major League baseball's glory road as one of the outstanding pitchers of the game, today came face to face with a detour sign that was expected to send him back to the minors.

The Chicago Cubs, who paid the St. Louis Cardinals $185,000 and $75,000 worth of players for the once great righthander three years ago, announced waivers have been obtained on Dean and that the pitcher, more or less at his own request, probably will be sent to the Cubs' Tulsa farm.

Just what action will be taken on the Dean case was to be decided today in talks between Cubs Owner P. K. Wrigley and Manager Gabby Hartness, with Of Diz sitting in. Charles Drake, assistant to Wrigley, said Dean himself was among those who thought a trip to the minors might help him. According to Drake, Dean began thinking of stepping down when old Tex Carleton pitched his no-hitter for Brooklyn a few weeks back. Drake quoted Dean as remarking:

"A year in the minors sure fixed Tex up. Why shouldn't it do the same for me?"

Diz himself was in temporary retirement following an auto accident Sunday in which he suffered a slight scalp wound, but Mrs. Dean agreed that new surroundings might be good for the big righthander.

"We'd be tickled to death at the chance to go to Tulsa," she said. "We know we've got a lot to find out about that arm. A good hot summer in Tulsa would be just the place for it. The doctors at Johns Hopkins Hospital said Diz would have to pitch side-arm all summer."

The Tulsa club, in the Texas League, is a Cub affiliate, so by farming Dean out the Cubs would have lost title to him should he show signs of returning to his old form.

GLITT TEAM ON TOP IN CHILLICOTHE CONTEST

The Glitt team, Circleville entry in the Chillicothe Softball League defeated the Chillicothe Merchants, 9-7, Monday evening, overcoming a 6-5 margin gained by the Chillicotheans.

Ansel Roof, third sacker for the Glitt crew, featured the evening's play with two triples and a double. Lloyd Leasure pitched for the winners and gave up seven hits.

In the Glitt lineup were: Roby, ss, D. Nance, rs, Reese lf, Roof 3b, Purcell, 1b, Rowland cf, Stevens c, Eldridge rf, P. Nance 2b, and Leasure p.

RED CHOICE INDEFINITE

Derringer Comes Through To Win Sixth After Battle With Bostonians

CINCINNATI, June 4—The New York Giants, who have surged to a point only 4 1/2 games behind the league-leading Cincinnati Reds after a mediocre early season, invaded the lair of the loop leaders today for a pair of tilts this afternoon and tomorrow night.

Carl Hubbell, once named the greatest southpaw in baseball and doing his best lately to redon that mantle, will match slants today with Whitey Moore or Johnny VanderMeer of the Reds. Hubbell already has one decision over the hometowners.

All the scoring was over at the end of the first inning of yesterday's game, which saw husky Paul Derringer rack up his sixth victory at the expense of the Boston Bees. He allowed eight hits in marking up the 3 to 1 win. Lou Fette pitched three-hit relief ball for seven innings for the Bees, but the damage had been done.

The win enabled the Reds to maintain their two-game lead over the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers.

By International News Service
If the old saw that any team with two 20-game pitchers wins the pennant holds good this season, Alva Bradley, owner of the Cleveland Indians, today might just as well place his order for a flag pole on which to tack the 1940 American League banner.

In addition to Bob Feller, considered a sure-shot to cop 20 or more triumphs, the Indians now boast of Al Milnar, a southpaw who yesterday registered his seventh victory against one loss. Feller's record to date is eight wins and two defeats.

Milnar, who has looked impressive in every start this year, was at his best in shutting out the Philadelphia Athletics, 4 to 0, on seven scattered hits yesterday. Ray Mack, rookie second sacker, helped hoist the Tribe to within a game of the league-leading Boston Red Sox by collecting three hits, including his fourth home run of the year.

HEROES AND GOATS

HEROES — Dolph Camilli, Brooklyn first baseman, whose homer enabled the Dodgers to defeat the Chicago Cubs; Al Milnar, Cleveland pitcher, who won his seventh game of the season by shutting out the Philadelphia Athletics for the first time this year.

GOATS—Joe Brown, Pittsburgh pinch-hitter, who tripped rounding third base with the tying run in the ninth; Fritz Ostermueller, Boston Red Sox pitcher, who gave up six runs in four innings, as the Red Sox lost valuable ground in the pennant race.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES 86 BOYS, GIRLS AT IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY

Parents, Friends Fill Auditorium

Addresses By Honored Students And Head Of Capital University Feature Event; Kiwanis Club Keys Are Presented

Parents and friends of Circleville High School's 86 graduating seniors in numbers so great that it became necessary to carry extra chairs into the school auditorium attended eighty-second commencement exercises Monday evening, regarded by many as one of the most impressive graduation services conducted in the high school in many years.

Of the 86 seniors, only one was absent, Miss Harriett Walters, who wrote the words to the graduating class song, being unable to attend because of illness. For four of the graduates the event was touched with sorrow, despite the joy of graduation, by deaths in their families, J. W. Myers, the grandfather of Isabelle M. and Mabel L. Noggle, and Miss Dakota Lutz, aunt of William and Marilyn Lutz, having died earlier in the day.

The commencement service was officially opened when the curtain was drawn revealing the graduates and officials of the school and other guests seated on the stage. The scene was a touching one with the boys and girls robed in their handsome blue gowns and caps, vases of red peonies adding to the colorful occasion.

Music by the high school orchestra, directed by C. F. Zaenglein, preceded the invocation by the Rev. A. N. Greuser, pastor of the First United Brethren Church. The senior quartette, comprised of Regina Thornton, Mary Lutz, Gale Hitchcock and Paul Walters, accompanied by Miss Grace Teegardin, sang "Massa Dear"—Dvorak and "Lullaby"—Brahms.

Orations Offered
The speaking program was opened by Superintendent Frank Fischer, whose brief address concerning the significance of the occasion, led to the salutatory and valedictory, offered by Miss Eleanor McDill and Miss Marilyn Lutz, respectively.

The former used as her subject, "And There Was Darkness Over All the Land," in which she compared the chaos prevailing in France in the hectic days of 1848 with the unrest and uncertainty dominating the world today. She declared: "Out of this chaos rose a group of strong individuals who left an indelible stamp on posterity. Out of this present turmoil will evolve a strength hitherto unknown. Man is so made that he can endure to be oppressed, overridden and humiliated for a time. Then he slowly begins to rebel. There are bound to be uprisings when a ruler, instead of becoming a servant of the people, overrides and dominates that people and deprives them of their God-invested right of life, and freedom to live that life."

"To us, classmates," she continued, "is given America with all of her golden opportunities. God grant that we may take that responsibility seriously and give it the best that is in us."

Miss Lutz' subject followed the trend established by Mr. Fischer's remarks when she spoke on: "And Light Was Made."

"At this precise moment in the history of the world," she said, "the future appears very black. After reading the newspapers and hearing the radio reports of the last few months, there seems to be no hope for anything."

She went on to discuss the prophecy made in 1936 by H. G. Wells, British historian, who declared that a war would break out in 1940 that would involve all the countries of the world and which would end in 1970 after nearly all the vestiges of civilization were destroyed.

"Mr. Wells went on to say," she declared, "that out of these deplorable conditions would arise another civilization, a greater one than ours, one that would be mainly scientific. Why can't we create this greater civilization without the war?" she asked. "If the English prophet believes that it would arise from such a situation, don't you think that we could make even a greater one than he dreamed of if we started now with our advantages?"

Developments Discussed
She discussed the scientific developments of the nation, the great

Kiwanis Keys Presented
Mr. Henry announced that Patricia Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bennett, and Paul W. Walters, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Walters, had won scholarship keys presented by the Kiwanis Club to the outstanding boy and girl of the class. Each was given a key and their names will be placed on a plaque presented by Kiwanians.

The exercises were concluded with the class song after which the class and the entire audience sang "America, the Beautiful." The "Festival March", played by the orchestra, preceded the benediction by the Rev. Mr. Greuser. Members of the graduating class included:

However, the Allies want to buy them for immediate use. When they asked Secretary Morgenthau about it he shoved the War Department order under their noses. This makes purchase impossible.

The War Department claims that this order was written in conformity with the Neutrality Act, and was issued with the full knowledge of the President. However, high-powered American lawyers hired by the Allies to study every kink in the Neutrality Act, can find nothing to bar such sales. The Act of 1920 passed by Congress permits the sale of surplus War Department goods to anyone, and in 1933 Jimmy Roosevelt helped arrange for the sale of Army supplies destined to the Bolivian Government.

Also, there doesn't seem to be much difference between diverting to the Allies airplanes already ordered by the Army, and selling out-of-date shoulder rifles now in Army storehouses. Chief difference is the pure legal technicality that in the case of the rifles, title has already passed to the United States Government.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

The Social Security Board is uneasily sitting on a secret that shows Chairman Arthur Altmeyer to be almost as poor a guesser as the late, and unlamented, Chamberlain government.

According to confidential SSB figures, Altmeyer is just 65 percent wrong in his estimate of the number who would apply for old age pensions under the so-called "liberalizing" revisions enacted by Congress last year.

Testifying before the Senate Finance Committee in behalf of the amendment, Altmeyer airily poohed-poohed charges that oldsters would not apply for pensions and predicted that over 900,000 applicants would file for benefits totaling around $114,000,000 in 1940. Congress took his word for it.

But today, the inside figures—which the SSB has not made public—show the critics to have been right and Altmeyer more than two-thirds wrong.

During the first four months of the year, only 62,364 eligibles applied for pensions totaling $1,173,933. This is a pretty sick showing compared to glowing forecasts.

As a result of the flop, SSB moguls privately have revised Altmeyer's figures, now hopefully estimate the year's total at 300,000 applicants for benefits amounting to $40,000,000—instead of 900,000 receiving $114,000,000.

Note—SSB explanation is that the average worker eligible for a pension makes around $66 a month. And he is unwilling to give this up for a $23 income under the pension system.

$10,000 ASKED AFTER ACCIDENT ON ROUTE 277

CHILLICOTHE, June 4—A year-old accident was echoed in a $10,000 damage suit brought in Common Pleas Court Monday by William Mumford, Clarksburg, against Earl W. Templin, also of Clarksburg.

Mumford claims that he was engaged in business for Templin and was riding in a car driven by the defendant at the time of the accident at the intersection of Routes 277 and 22 on May 27, 1939.

He alleges Templin, driving south on Route 277, failed to stop but drove out into the arterial highway intersection and collided with the automobile of Hubert Mumford, headed northeast on Route 22.

The plaintiff says he was thrown out of the car and suffered a skull fracture, cerebral concussion and intra-cranial bleeding, loss of hearing in one ear, a crushing of the lower back, fracture of a rib with resultant neuritis in that region.

Parents, Friends Fill Auditorium

Addresses By Honored Students And Head Of Capital University Feature Event; Kiwanis Club Keys Are Presented

Parents and friends of Circleville High School's 86 graduating seniors in numbers so great that it became necessary to carry extra chairs into the school auditorium attended eighty-second commencement exercises Monday evening, regarded by many as one of the most impressive graduation services conducted in the high school in many years.

Of the 86 seniors, only one was absent, Miss Harriett Walters, who wrote the words to the graduating class' song, being unable to attend because of illness. For four of the graduates the event was touched with sorrow, despite the joy of graduation, by deaths in their families, J. W. Myers, the grandfather of Isabelle M. and Mabel L. Noggle, and Miss Dakota Lutz, aunt of William and Marilyn Lutz, having died earlier in the day.

The commencement service was officially opened when the curtain was drawn revealing the graduates and officials of the school and other guests seated on the stage. The scene was a touching one with the boys and girls robed in their handsome blue gowns and caps, vases of red peonies adding to the colorful occasion.

Music by the high school orchestra, directed by C. F. Zaenglein, preceded the invocation by the Rev. A. N. Greuser, pastor of the First United Brethren Church. The senior quartette, comprised of Regina Thornton, Mary Lutz, Gale Hitchcock and Paul Walters, accompanied by Miss Grace Teegardin, sang "Massa Dear"—Dvorak and "Lullaby"—Brahms.

Orations Offered

The speaking program was opened by Superintendent Frank Fischer, whose brief address concerning the significance of the occasion, led to the salutatory and valedictory, offered by Miss Eleanor McDill and Miss Marilyn Lutz, respectively.

The former used as her subject, "And There Was Darkness Over All the Land," in which she compared the chaos prevailing in France in the hectic days of 1848 with the unrest and uncertainty dominating the world today. She declared: "Out of this chaos rose a group of strong individuals who left an indelible stamp on posterity. Out of this present turmoil will evolve a strength hitherto unknown. Man is so made that he can endure to be oppressed, overridden and humiliated for a time. Then he slowly begins to rebel. There are bound to be uprisings when a ruler, instead of becoming a servant of the people, overrides and dominates that people and deprives them of their God-invested right of life, and freedom to live that life."

"To us, classmates," she continued, "is given America with all of her golden opportunities. God grant that we may take that responsibility seriously and give it the best that is in us."

Miss Lutz' subject followed the trend established by Mr. Fischer's remarks when she spoke on: "And Light Was Made".

"At this precise moment in the history of the world," she said, "the future appears very black. After reading the newspapers and hearing the radio reports of the last few months, there seems to be no hope for anything."

She went on to discuss the prophecy made in 1936 by H. G. Wells, British historian, who declared that a war would break out in 1940 that would involve all the countries of the world and which would end in 1970 after nearly all the vestiges of civilization were destroyed.

"Mr. Wells went on to say," she declared, "that out of these deplorable conditions would arise another civilization, a greater one than ours, one that would be mainly scientific. Why can't we create this greater civilization without the war?" she asked. "If the English prophet believes that it would arise from such a situation, don't you think that we could make even a greater one than he dreamed of if we started now with our advantages?"

Developments Discussed

She discussed the scientific developments of the nation, the great colleges, the struggle of labor and capital, and the possibility of citizens of the United States expanding into South America. She discussed, also, the unemployment problem and the resultant low standard of labor.

"If it becomes a question of the survival of the fittest, 'Miss Lutz continued,' America shall survive. She cannot fail, for she has all the materials with which to work, the craftsmen to do the work, and all she needs is continued effort from her citizens toward advancement. With everything right at her hand and with such a great future ahead, what can be wrong? As long as we have faith in our Country and in ourselves, we have every hope for the future. God's in His Heaven, All's right with the world."

The senior chorus offered "The Green Cathedral" by Hahn and "Dear Land of Home" by Sibelius, prior to the introduction of Dr. Otto Mees, president of Capital University, by Superintendent Fischer.

Dr. Mees, one of the most popular educators in Ohio and always at home before a Circleville audience, praised the valedictorian and salutatorian for their orations as he started his address. He declared: "Americans should be appreciative for the blessings bestowed on them in their pursuit for happiness and contentment."

He recalled the historical George, patron saint of the Britons, and recited the story that the British love to tell concerning his destruction of the legendary dragon that was about to pounce on the beautiful princess, placed outside the gates of her father's village as food for the dragon.

"This young man," Dr. Mees said, "did not ask the villagers how much he would be paid for destroying the dragon that was about to devour the beautiful princess, but he saw his challenge, he was prepared and he awaited the approach of the angry animal to perform his duty."

Many Dragons Today

"Many say," the speaker continued, "that there are no more dragons, today to be killed, but they are wrong. The dragons of today are many. Many dragons in the form of challenges face every young person. Let no one tell you boys and girls that there is no place for you in the world of today. There is a definite place, no one knows just what that place might be, but you should be prepared and ready for it when it comes."

David Hilyard, selected as the class orator, offered the touching address: "I Am An American", by Elisa Lieberman.

Principal J. Wray Henry of the high school presented the class to the board of education, Lawrence E. Goeller, president of the board, presenting diplomas to each of the graduates.

Principal Henry then presented awards to outstanding members of the class, naming Marvinne Armstrong, David Eagleson, Barbara Johnson, Robert Brehmer, Mary Fickardt, Eleanor Brown, Bonita Hulse, Mary Lutz, Eleanor McDill and Marilyn Lutz as members of the honor roll, each having an average of more than 90 during four years of high school work.

Kiwanis Keys Presented

Mr. Henry announced that Patricia Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bennett, and Paul W. Walters, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Walters, had won scholarship keys presented by the Kiwanis Club to the outstanding boy and girl of the class. Each was given a key and their names will be placed on a plaque presented by Kiwanians.

The exercises were concluded with the class song after which the class and the entire audience sang "America, the Beautiful". The "Festival March", played by the orchestra, preceded the benediction by the Rev. Mr. Greuser.
